THREATENS TO SUE CITY OVER FIREMAN LAW

Official Charges Mansfield Not Complying With New 72-Hour Week Bill.

GIVEN 30 DAYS TO ACT

One of 8 Cities Given Warning; Mayor Due to Give Decision Tomorrow on Police Law.

While Mayor William J Locke debated on the approval or veto of an ordinance passed Tuesday night by city council authorizing a shorter work-week for city policemen, court action was threatened against the city today by Nelson Hovey, assistant state director of industrial relations on the grounds that city firemen were required to work too long.

Mansfield was among eight cities in Ohio warned today by Hovey to comply with the state law providing a 72-hour-week for firemen or face mandamus actions brought by the state department of industrial relations.

Other municipalities accused of violating the law passed by the state legislature last summer are Cincinnati, Findlay, Dayton, Zanesville, Cleveland Heights, East Cleveland and Piqua.

Hovey said he would begin court action in 30 days if they do not comply, dispatches from Columbus said.

Would Mean 5 More Men.

It has been estimated that the new law will require one additional firemen in the department for each six now employed.

This would mean that the Mansfield department with a force of 30 firemen would have to have at least five additional men.

Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger in drafting his 1940 budget last summer asked for eight additional firemen, four of which he said were needed to put the reduced hours law into effect here.

Council's finance committee, however, eliminated this provision after seeking the co-operation of the department in continuing on the present 84-hour-week basis due to the lack of finances.

Seeburger said today that to put the 72-hour-week into effect without at least four additional men would mean the shelving of the motor apparatus.

"This," he pointed out, "might have some bearing on the city's fire insurance rates which might be increased due to reduced fire protection."

Councilman C N. Shultz who objected to passage of the police ordinance Tuesday night that would give city policemen every sixth day off instead of every eighth day as at present, said he "didn't know what the city would do now" in regards to the fireman's law problem.

He had told council that it

Shoppers Defy Icy Streets, Walks As Bargain Days Open

Mansfield's mid-winter bargain days got under way this morning despite ice-coated streets and sidewalks.

About 50 Mansfield retail merchants are taking part in the merchandising event, and the bargains they offered brought out hundreds of shoppers who otherwise might have been intimidated by the hazardous streets today.

Tag-end winter merchandise and early spring goods were to be found among the bargain items. The sales will be offered through tomorrow.

The semi-annual merchandising event is sponsored by the Retail Merchants association, and participating stores are marked with yellow and black banners.

BLAST KILLS 2

Circleville Gas Explosion Fatal to Mother, Daughter.

CIRCLEVILLE —(AP)— A gas explosion wrecked a portion of a double house and caused the deaths today of Mrs. Mary Kuhns, 65, and her daughter, Veronica, 28. Two other persons were injured.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sohers, 24 and 23, respectively, were burned severely in the blast last night. They were being shown the house as prospective tenants by Mrs. Kuhns, widow, and her daughter.

All were knocked down a stairway, their clothing in flames.

'Doings of Dionnes' To Picture Quints In Daily Routine

The greatest "sister act" in the world becomes a regular feature of the Sunday News-Journal with the first release under a new contract with King Features of the Dionne quintuplets' pictures.

The "Doings of the Dionnes" will be pictured in the News-Journal every Sunday, showing the five sisters at their play, their studies and their daily routine.

No glamorous star of filmdom has been pictured from every angle as have these sisters, who are picture stars in their own rights, no world celebrity can equal them for publicity.

The main difference between the movie stars and the quints, is that pictures of the stars are not only free to publishers but every device is used to get them in papers, while the Dionne quints' pictures may be had only for a fee—a considerable fee. In other words, the quints are news.

The entire world is curious about them, because there has been nothing like them in history. There have been amazing multiple births now and then over a period of centuries but this is the first time the children have lived and grown into healthy, normal and beautiful children

PAVING PROJECT HITS NEW SNAG

City 'Insists' on Brick for W. 4th as State Proposes Brick and Concrete.

Plans for the reconstruction of West Fourth street ran into another snag today as city and state officials wrangled over the type of paving.

Mayor William J. Locke said he had written to Murray D. Shaffer, division highway engineer at Ashland, informing him that council "insisted" on a brick surface.

Locke said the letter had been written at the request of council's street committee which met two days ago and turned down the state proposal for a brick and concrete roadway.

The committee believes the all-brick surface will wear better, he added.

The mayor added that the state had proposed a 22-foot center lane of brick with a six-foot parking strip of concrete on both sides of the 34-foot street in order to reduce the cost.

The proposal as drafted calls for resurfacing of the roadway from Diamond street to Ausdale avenue and is estimated to cost approximately $100,000. The city and property owners are to share jointly in 50 per cent of the cost with the state bearing the other half while WPA would furnish the labor.

The concrete parking lanes, it was understood, would have trimmed the total cost of the project by about $10,000.

BLAST SHAKES HOMES IN AREA OF 20 MILES

Night Watchman Missing, Two Injured in Destruction of California Plant.

PANIC GRIPS RESIDENTS

Thousands Attracted to Scene as Pyrotechnical Display Lights Up Skies.

(By International News Service)

REDONDO BEACH, Cal.—One of the worst blasts in the history of Southern California, set off by more than 20 tons of powder and dynamite, sent the biggest fireworks manufacturing plant in the west into absolute nothingness at Redondo Beach shortly before midnight.

A night watchman was reported missing and a 50-year-old woman and an 8-year-old boy were hurt.

The main three-story building of the Golden State Fireworks company and 24 smaller buildings and sheds on the grounds were demolished by the terrific blast which was heard and felt for a radius of almost 20 miles.

A survey early today showed: Business buildings and homes for miles around suffered shattered windows and other damage. Power, communication and gas lines over a wide area were put out of commission. Homes close to the plant were heavily damaged, the roof of one collapsing and injuring Mrs. Minnie Denmore, 50.

Loss Set at $200,000.

Loss of the fireworks plant was estimated at $200,000 by Patrick Lizza, its owner, who could give no reason for the blast.

Residents for miles around were panic-stricken, many thinking a violent earthquake had struck.

Fire departments from adjoining communities had great difficulty reaching the scene as thousands of autoists, attracted by the blast and ensuing pyrotechnical display, jammed highways leading into the beach community.

S. R. O. SIGN OUT

With 400 reservations already made, John G. Routzon, secretary manager of the chamber, said a capacity crowd was assured for the banquet, scheduled for 6:30 p. m.

Prominent industrial and railroad leaders who will address the meeting began arriving in Mansfield early this afternoon, among them a delegation from the Westinghouse company headquarters at Pittsburgh and officials of the Baltimore and Ohio, Pennsylvania and Erie railroads.

Wisconsin Test Seen For Garner, Roosevelt

President's Name And Partial Slate of Delegates Filed By Dem Group; Vice President Already Entered.

BULLETIN

CHICAGO—(AP)—Julius F. Smietanka, Chicago attorney, announced today he would enter the name of Vice President Garner in Illinois' presidential preferential primary at 4 p. m. today.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Wisconsin came to the forefront today as a potential Roosevelt-Garner testing ground and eclipsed even Illinois as a probable gauge of the strength of presidential material in both parties.

The action of the Democratic Party Organization of Wisconsin in filing President Roosevelt's name along with a partial slate of delegates yesterday made it appear almost certain that Wisconsin would be one of the first states to consider the third term issue in a presidential primary. Delegates for Vice President Garner were entered last week.

Under Wisconsin law, the president does not have to announce whether he is a candidate, and unless he specifically objects, his name might be carried on the April 2 ballot without his intentions having become known.

In Illinois, Garner backers were at work in a drive which, it was reported, may culminate in filing petitions to put his name on the Democratic ballot for the April primary. Garner declined comment.

Midnight is the deadline for entering names in the Illinois balloting, which does not bind delegates.

Pedestrians Get Worst Of It As Ice Still Plagues City

Mansfielders skidded to work on ice-coated streets and sidewalks this morning, but the pedestrian got the worst of it

Streets were slippery but the sidewalks were slipperier and many a pedestrian took to the streets on their way to work, preferring to chance being hit by a skidding car rather than fall on the sidewalk

Most of the ice had melted by noon today when the mercury rose above freezing, and the weatherman said snow will cover the rest of it tonight and Saturday. He forecast slightly colder weather tonight. Today's low was 30 and the temperature at noon was 38 degrees

State highway patrolmen said the worst driving conditions in the state were on route 42 north from Ashland and in the Millersburg area

A number of trucks stalled last night on route 96 near Plymouth and were rescued by state highway workers who spread cinders and sand on the slippery road.

PROTEST FUMES

Fifth Ward Residents Petition Health Board, Blame Factory.

City health officials had before them today a protest from Fifth ward residents against gas fumes and smoke from a factory located in the district.

The petition, which was submitted to Dr. Roy C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, said the fumes came from the Globe Steel Abrasive company.

Bearing the signatures of 87 residents in the vicinity of First avenue and Eclipse street, the petition charges that the fumes thrown off by the factory are a menace to public health and asks the health board to take steps to eliminate them.

The request was being studied today by Dr Rehder.

Nation Starts Conversations With Neutrals

Hull Reveals Program After Roosevelt Announces Undersecretary Welles Will Tour Belligerent Capitals and Confer With Pope Pius.

WASHINGTON—Secretary of State Cordell Hull announced today that conversations have begun with several neutral governments with a view to "the eventual restoration of world peace on a sound and lasting basis."

Hull said the conversations, being conducted through diplomatic channels, probably will be broadened to include talks with all neutral governments.

Hull's announcement followed disclosure by President Roosevelt that Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles will leave shortly on a tour of Italy, Germany, Britain and France to obtain first-hand information of conditions existing in those countries.

State department officials declared, however, that Welles' tour of the European capitals had "no connection" with the peace talks which have already been inaugurated with several neutral countries.

Welles plans to sail on Feb. 17 aboard the Italian liner Rex. Also on that ship will be Myron C. Taylor, who is going to the Vatican as President Roosevelt's personal envoy to work with Pope Pius in formulating a program to assist eventual restoration of peace.

TURKS LAUNCH NAZI OUSTER

Sets 24 Hour Deadline for German Technicians to Leave Country.

(By Associated Press)

ISTANBUL — The Turkish government today dismissed 100 German technicians employed by the war and naval ministries and gave them 48 hours to leave Turkey.

It was announced that the step was taken under special decree powers voted to the government by the national assembly "for the protection of national defense."

The blanket discharge, coming one day after Turkish seizure of the German-owned Krupp shipyards here, applied to 20 marine specialists at the Turkish naval base of Gyeldjuk on the Sea of Marmora; 20 technicians at a munitions factory near Ankara, and 60 others active in Turkey's military preparations.

Officials said that henceforth no German could work in state-owned industries. This was believed to affect several hundred men in addition to those discharged today.

Reports that Germanys' ambassador, Franz von Papen, had been directed to make a sharp protest against the shipyards confiscation were answered in government circles with the assertion that Turkey was within her legal rights.

Marines continued to occupy the Krupp yards on the Golden Horn, at an inlet of the strategic straits of the Bosphorous, where 50 Germans had been supervising completion of two submarines for the Turkish navy until their sudden ouster yesterday.

LISTS LOSSES

Lloyd's Says 377 Vessels of 1,121,105 Tons Destroyed.

LONDON —(AP)— Lloyd's shipping gazette today listed war losses to merchant shipping at 307 vessels totalling 1,121,105 tons.

The agency, publisher of the authoritative annual shipping registry, placed German losses at 26 ships aggregating 143,315 tons.

This did not include 21 captured German merchantmen of 88,844 total tons. The loss in January of the 5,085-ton Greek steamer Keramiai was disclosed by Lloyd's for the first time.

The arrival of 25 crewmen of the 2,156-ton French steamer Marie Dawn at a British port yesterday disclosed she had sunk in the North sea after striking a mine. It was feared the 3,847-ton British freighter Highcliffe, reported ashore on the northern English coast, would be a total loss

"Matters involving present war conditions are not a part of these preliminary conversations. These conversations can, of course, be extended to belligerent nations insofar as they involve these two common problems of future peace."

In response to press conference questions, Hull indicated that the governments of Italy, Germany, France and Great Britain have

Scout Chief Hits 'Bribery' As Quarry Leaves 'Ice Cream Bond'

Boy Scout Police Chief Morton Frankel, who with other scout "city officials" wound up his one-day term in office yesterday, suspected bribery following his unsuccessful hunt for Floyd Dent, area scout executive, whom he sought on a charge of "malicious destruction of property."

The young officer after spending most of the day searching for to quash refused to city hall yesterday afternoon to find that Dent had been there and taken some movies.

Somewhat non-plussed, Chief Frankel immediately charged other officials including Mayor for the day Richard Weaver and Service-Safety Director Robert Burns with neglect of duty, pointing out that the affidavit they had signed was on file in municipal court

The other officials quickly silenced the chief, waving a dollar bill which they said Dent had left as bond—a bond which it was suspected went toward the purchase of ice cream.

All in fun, the youths who held city offices as part of the observance of National Boy Scout week here had filed charge against their leader accusing him of the destruction of a hat at camp last summer

The affidavit charged that Dent had "wilfully and maliciously" and without provocation had torn up a hat size 6¾, the value of 10 cents which had belonged to the Boy Scout service director.

House Group Slashes $100,000,000 From Navy Budget

ROOSEVELT'S PROGRAM CUT 260 MILLIONS

Subcommittee Says Present Navy Building Schedule Won't Be Crippled.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — A house appropriations subcommittee, continuing the current congressional economy drive, has cut more than $100,000,000 out of the navy department budget for 1941, it was learned today.

The cuts would boost to approximately $260,000,000 the reductions in President Roosevelt's budget figures as they are represented in the present status of six appropriation bills handled so far this session. At the moment the saving under the budget amounts to $159,000,000, although only one of the bills is in its final form.

Members of the house naval appropriations subcommittee said the cuts in the navy bill have been made without seriously affecting funds requested to continue the present building program, which calls for construction to start in the fiscal year beginning July 1 on 19 new fighting ships.

One of the items involved, it was learned, was a $20,000,000 request for submarine-catching nets to be used for protection of harbors in war time. Members found that the nets could be turned out in six months if the threat to safety became more acute than at present.

The goal of economy forces in the house is to cut President Roosevelt's $8,464,000,000 (B) budget for 1941 sufficiently to avoid leaving about $460,000,000 (M) in taxes, which he estimated would be required to provide for that expenditure if an increase in the debt limit is to be avoided.

Reports Next Tuesday.

The navy bill probably will be reported to the house next Tuesday under the schedule which has brought a major money bill to the floor in the house each week.

Only one of the six bills so far initiated has reached the White House. That is the emergency supplemental national defense measure, which received final approval from the house yesterday. The cuts by senate and house in this bill reduced its total nearly $20,000,000 under the budget.

Elliott Roosevelt On Record Against 3rd Term For Dad

CHICAGO—(INS)—Elliott Roosevelt was on record today against a third term for his father.

Following an address before a joint meeting of the Illinois Lumber and Material Dealers' association, and the Illinois Builders' League in Chicago last night, the president's son was bombarded with questions, the first of which was "will your dad run again?" he answered:

"I don't know. But all the jobholders want him to Personally, I think he shouldn't."

Other questions and Elliott's answers included:

"What do you think of Garner?"

"I don't think he's as bad as Lewis said he is." (John L. Lewis, head of the CIO, recently called Vice President Garner a "whisky drinking, poker playing evil old man.")

"What is the difference between William Green, president of the A. F. of L., and Lewis?"

"Green wants to run the labor unions; Lewis the country."

"Do you think the power of Lewis should be curtailed?"

"There is no need to curtail it. You can do it more easily by laughing him out of power."

The mystery of the missing witness in a careless and reckless driving case in municipal court this morning was solved in short order by court attaches who did a little sleuthing on the telephone. Court attaches were sure they had issued a subpoena for the witness. A hurried call to the sheriff's office revealed that deputies had mislaid the summons and that the witness who lives in Plymouth had not been served. Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch continued the case until next week.

A Mansfield man who was arrested for driving while under the "influence" felt that he had been handed a raw deal and asked the police department to make amends. Not that he minded so much the $50 and costs and the year's suspended driving license—it was the $1 traffic ticket that got him down. He was arrested and taken to city jail and police took possession of his car. They parked it in a restricted zone, forgot it and a traffic officer came by and put a ticket on it. That's when the defendant got peeved. But officers cancelled the ticket when they learned that it was their error and not his violation.

JAIL THREE AS CHECK FORGERS

Springfield Authorities Make Arrest for Loudonville Village Officials.

LOUDONVILLE — Three men were arrested in Springfield today on charges of issuing forged checks here this week after eight Loudonville merchants were victimized to the tune of $166.

Sheriff Dale Hammond of Ashland county and Officer R. G. Schnittke left today for Springfield where authorities were holding Clyde Stoffer, 38, Loudonville; his brother, Dwight Stoffer, 26, Canton; and James Redwick, 38, Lakemore, O.

Apprehension of the trio was due largely to the quick wit of Allen Conrad, 20, son of Marshall Bert Conrad. A mutilated license place on the car driven by the trio aroused his suspicions and caused him to get in touch with his father immediately.

The checks were drawn on Herbert Lifer, well-known farmer whose checks to his employes are frequently cashed by merchants here. The older Stoffer resides in a house owned by Lifer.

The checks were passed Wednesday afternoon when the banks were closed. At the Farmers Equity where a man ordered a ton of coal and offered a check for $26 in payment signed by Lifer's name, and received more than $18 in change.

At the Miner Brothers grocery a small purchase of groceries was made and a check for $22 was given and the change accepted.

Later three men drove up to a filling station where young Conrad works as attendant. He noticed that the front license plate was bent, and walked to the back of the car and took the number, which he telephoned to his father.

A description of the men who had passed the checks tallied with Conrad's description and police of the state were notified by radio to look for the car. The trio was arrested in Springfield by Clark county officers.

CALLS FOR HELP

Boston Coast Guard Hears British Steamer's SOS.

BOSTON—(AP)—The coast guard intercepted a distress call today from a British steamer, the Sea Rambler, which advised she had a hatch stove in and was taking water, and asked all vessels in her vicinity to stand by.

She gave her position as about 540 miles due east of St. Johns, Newfoundland. The coast guard said it heard no answering signals immediately.

Nothing further was heard from the Sea Rambler or from any ships which might be going to her aid, but radio men ashore said it was entirely possible that help was on the way, with radios silent because of wartime conditions.

DIES SAYS CASH RAISED THROUGH PUBLIC 'GIFTS'

Money Kept in 10 Different Accounts; 'New Sensations' Promised by Chairman.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— The Dies committee today postponed a meeting at which members had planned to resume questioning William Dudley Pelley about his anti-semitic ideas and his leaders of the Silver Shirt legion.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—William Dudley Pelley, the so-called "American Hitler" and leader of the Silver Shirt legion, and his asociates, received at least $240,000 during the last eight years, Dies committee investigators disclosed today.

The committee opened the inquiry into the "profits" Pelley and his associates netted through organization of the Silver Shirts and other of his admittedly anti-semitic and allegedly pro-Fascist activities, as part of its general effort to bare the huge sums propaganda organizations realize from public contributions.

The investigation into Pelley's affairs revealed 10 differnt bank accounts and a post office account at Asheville, N. C., the committee said. The bank accounts included five in Asheville, two in New York, two in Washington and one in Knoxville, Tenn.

The committee intends to question Pelley about the source of some of the big contributions he received. Richard Barker, committee investigator, said he traced receipt of $3,800 from Sarach C. Scott, of Belmont, Mass., and $4,600 from George B. Fisher, New York business man. Dr. J. R. Brinkley, the "goat gland" doctor of Kansas and Mexico, was listed as contributing $629.

Promises 'Sensation.'

Promising "sensational developments," acting Chairman Joe Starnes planned to recall Pelley to the witness stand late today.

Despite Pelley's denial that the Silver Shirt legion armed its followers, committee members said they were prepared to disclose that a reserve army officer was hired to drill members of the legion.

Rev. Voohris (D.) California, said he wanted further evidence on the "question of connection" between the Silver Shirts and the German-American bund after Pelley admitted that Silver Shirt literature was handled by bund bookshops.

FUGITIVE BACK

Inmate Who Fled 5 Years Ago Returned to O. S. R.

An Ohio State reformatory inmate who escaped from the Grafton honor camp nearly five years ago was back at the institution today with two years additional time to serve as penalty for his fling at freedom.

Supt. Arthur L. Glattke said the fugitive was returned here last night from St. Louis, Mo., by reformatory guards.

He identified him as Joseph Paserk, 25, Cuyahoga county burglar who escaped from the camp, April 13, 1937, after serving nearly two years of a one to 15 year sentence for burglary and larceny. He was committed to the reformatory April 30, 1935.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Pegler Points Out Some Reasons for Sourness To Friend 'Duck' Ickes

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Harold Ickes recently got out a little book about the press, in which he observed in a rather complaining way that too much of the wisdom contained in these essays was unkind in tone. That is a hot one coming from him, but the criticism was not original with the secretary of the interior. It is an old story, and although I try and try to write nice, somehow it comes out mean, which is a matter of great distress, because I want to be loved. My nature is very affectionate.

But, looking back, I observe that the most obdurate boosters in journalism have not been the best reporters and that very often the boost was not so much honest praise out of a sweet nature but a plug written for motives that were no less reprehensible than honest, if sometimes captious, dissent.

I suppose everybody knows about old Mr. Brisbane's work as capper for his own real estate interests, and all newspapermen remember when, in going over the proofs as they came down from the composing room, they would find items slugged "must," telling about the engagement of the charming and talented daughter of someone who just happened to be a heavy advertiser.

And then, in the sport business, sometimes a certain sport page would give a big play to some fighter who had all the knacks and earmarks of a confirmed bum, and after a while it would come out that the sport editor or a writer had been cut in for a piece of the tramp. Or a promoter would cut someone in for a piece of the house.

On the other hand, there were honest optimists who would get utterly silly crushes on athletes or even on individual horses and try to root them in, ignoring faults in their work or temperament which were obvious to anyone with balanced judgment.

Or, being stubbornly romantic, some individuals would persuade themselves to ignore the fact that this or that fighter was owned and operated by some bootlegger or mob, and insist on believing that the lithe, lean, dumb and handsome Gladiator was going in there to put forth his best efforts when it was obvious that the poor tiger had no voice in the matter.

As I look back I believe I sort of elected myself the offset. It wasn't a conscious decision. It just worked out that way.

As to the grafters, I thought that most of them never did have any place in the newspaper business and were dousing up a very nice business. It wasn't on behalf of the public that I was resentful but on behalf of the business, because, after all, the public never was really the loser, even on a fake fight or an overrated show.

Some fakes were better than an earnest, monotonous drag to a close decision, and if a poor show drew too much money, then the crowd provided its own thrills and fun. The crowd makes the occasion, and sometimes a great fight is unimpressive because there aren't enough people.

And I never believed that we had any right to build up reputations as restaurateur and "sportsman" for operators who were known to all of us as nothing but racketeers. When one low hoodlum was taken for a ride and dumped over the wall of a cemetery in Brooklyn, one hero-worshipper with a column of space at his disposal wrote one of those "good-bye, old pal" pieces that would nauseate a buzzard.

By muscling into the sport racket the hoodlums were chumming up very close to our business and getting publicity on the pretext that they were picturesque when they were just dirty and low.

Well, since then in the cosmic line, things have been much the same, but with a difference. In this line, people get crushes, too, and tend to minimize or justify inconsistencies, irregularities and injustices, and in some cases to pal around with the Bolos, who are the equivalent of the hoodlums on the sport side.

When Ickes says I got censored out I like to point out that his boss, Mr. Big, censored him out, too, as he will admit if you corner him and give him the old "yah." And when they say I sing for my supper I can show that one of their fair-haired New Deal numbers got his take in the form of a radio assignment negotiated by the administration.

So it ain't me, altogether. The facts are a little rancid, too, and if not, how does it come that Mr. Ickes sounds so sour himself that they call him Donald Duck?

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Movie medicine has taken some interesting strides up the ladder of authenticity since the old days when real doctors could chuckle at the technique of reel ones.

Hollywood never goes into a fictional operating room now without taking along a technical expert who knows his scalpels and anesthetics. That's why, when a movie actor has "operated" in a picture, the audience needn't have the uncomfortable suspicion that he's sewn up a saw or his cigaret case inside the "patients" wound. It isn't done. Cinema surgery is according to medical Hoyle.

The surgical cycle of a few years back—movie after movie in which the drama centered on the quick, tense motions of a cinema doctor's hands in close-up over a cinema patient—is forgotten at least temporarily. But medicine and the operating amphitheater survive, happily, as film material in occasional pictures. Medicine, if not the operating room, will be back with a bang in "The Magic Bullet," the story of Dr. Ehrlich, and until then—there is always that young Dr Kildare.

It's a visit to the new Kildare film's set that prompts today's attention to movie medicine. The overseer (technical director) there is young Dr. Gilbert Lee, who has been guiding Kildare (Lew Ayres) and Gillespie (Lionel Barrymore) through all their medical problems since the series began three pictures ago. Lee, with his M. D. from the University of Minnesota alternates private practice with his movie duties, and is pleasantly excited about the speed with which new discoveries in medicine and surgery are reflected.

"Dr. Kildare's Secret," third of the series, used sulfapyridin prominently in treatment of a patient and the new one has a plot involving use of "insulin shock" to cure a mental disorder.

It is the Kildare makers' boast that in three of the films already marketed they've had but one medical squawk. This came from a local doctor who protested that the "malnourished baby" in "Young Dr. Kildare" couldn't possibly have been suffering from malnutrition, looking as healthy as it did. Dr. Lee came right back with the records; a special permit obtained for camera work by a baby victim of the disorder.

Interest in medical matters has spread among the cast and workers on the films. The prolific author, Max Brand, started it all by his own delvings into medical lore for fiction. Barrymore, who has been in sickbeds enough to sharpen an already active interest, is a confirmed reader of medical tomes, and Ayres is forever popping up with some question or bit of odd information gleaned from personal reading. Harold Bacquet, the director, has accompanied Dr. Lee on two tours, so far, of medical centers.

The new film, incidentally, has an interesting sequence showing how movie-writers let circumstances alter cases. Old Dr. Gillespie of the piece, long wheelchair-bound by a supposedly incurable disease, is given a ray of hope. And why? Because Lionel Barrymore, in person, is getting better and better and scarcely needs his wheelchair any more. Next Kildare, if Barrymore feels like it, old Dr. Gillespie can walk — a "cured man."

INFANT BOY DIES

FOOD INSTITUTE OPENS FEB. 21

at the institute. She will be assisted by Miss Pauline Scrofield, home service representative of the Mansfield district of the Ohio Fuel Gas company.

Entirely different programs are planned for the three sessions, and the entire institute is so planned as to cover practically every phase of kitchen work. Old and modern foods, new methods in cookery, present day trends in menu planning, new time-saving methods and unusual dishes are among the subjects that will be discussed and demonstrated during the institute.

The first day the program will revolve around the preparing of breakfast—the meal that starts the day right or wrong—and the second day's program will deal with the many ramifications of the "Meal of The Day" dinner. During the session Miss McFarland will discuss the important subject of dishes for children.

The third day will center around a subject that interests practically every homemaker today—what to have for parties and how to prepare it.

A model all-gas kitchen will be set up on the Ohio stage as the locale for the institute.

The three-day homemaking event is free to women and girls of Mansfield and vicinity.

MORE GERMANS HIT BY TURKS' OUSTER ACTION

property in Turkey was expected "sooner or later" in informed circles, which saw the once-strong German influence in Turkey waning since Turkey's alignment with Great Britain and France.

It was learned that hundreds of German experts employed in Turkey would be discharged and sent back to the reich.

Forced liquidation of German enterprises and voluntary withdrawal of many German business men was reported already under way

Measures against German interests were seen by foreign observers as logical upon recalling Turkish Foreign Minister Sukru Saracoglu's recent statement that "Turkey is not neutral but only non-belligerent for the moment."

Declining to explain the seizure, official Turkish quarters remarked only that "spring is coming."

Many observers have expressed fear that spring will bring a German or Russian thrust into the Balkans to seize the Dardanelles and the Bosphorous, which link the Black sea and the Mediterranean

In this connection, attention was riveted today on British and French troop concentrations in the Near East, with a statement in Paris by the French minister of Colonies that France's colonial army could be swelled to 2,000,000 men if necessary.

Turks assert that the French and British now have some 500,000 men under arms in the Near East.

Russia Lands More Fighters By 'Chutes.

HELSINKI —(AP)— Soviet Russian spies and fighters parachuting to earth behind the Mannerheim lines harrassed the Finns today as they combatted red army offensives on four fronts.

The Russians, fighting in temperatures from 15 to 40 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit, failed to make important advances and in some sectors suffered heavy losses the Finns reported.

They denied that the Mannerheim line had been penetrated.

(A Russian army communique last night said attacks on the Mannerheim line had resulted in the capture of 13 steel and concrete forts in the Hotinen and Summa areas of the Karelian Isthmus. The report said "the enemy suffered grea losses.")

But the parachute campaign by Russians disguised as Finnish soldiers and farmers aroused the concern of Finnish military leaders.

Several patrols of these saboteurs dropped from planes were captured yesterday, the Finnish high command said, but added that others had caused considerable damage.

Daladier Tells of Spy Moves In France.

PARIS — (UP) — Premier Edouard Daladier, opposing a demand by the chamber of deputies for an immediate secret session, asserted today that German and Russian secret agents were in France sounding public opinion on five vital questions

The questions which the agents were asking, he said, were:

1. The extent of Daladier's popularity.
2. The popularity and strength of his opponents.
3. The public attitude toward Great Britain.
4. Italy's role in the European situation.
5. The strength of France's position in the Arab world.

German Plane Shot Down, London Says.

LONDON — (UP) — A German plane was brought down today near the Firth of Forth, the air ministry announced as German aircraft resumed raids on coastal shipping and were counter-attacked by British fighting planes

British fighting planes went after German bombers which attacked vessels off both the Scottish and English coasts.

One swift counter-attack was made by the fighter craft as the Germans attempted to carry their operations to the important naval yards on the Firth of Forth.

One Nazi plane which was attacked crashed near the Scottish naval center, the ministry said.

Officials said that the German plane fell into the sea.

The coastal shipping raids were the first since last Saturday, when four German planes were reported shot down and Berlin claimed that 14 British and neutral ships were sunk.

Reds Make Claim of Major Victory.

MOSCOW—(INS)—For the first time in many weeks the Soviet Red army claimed a major victory over Finland today, asserting that 13 Finnish fortifications had been captured, eight of them along the Mannerheim line in the Carelian isthmus.

An official war communique stated that the Finnish troops suffered "great losses" in heavy fighting north and south of Lake Ladoga.

The communique also contained the first Russian mention of fighting in the Summa sector of the Mannerheim line, and thereby constituted a Soviet admission of the heavy fighting that has been progressing there.

Westinghouse Officials Here.

Berlin to Dispatch Protests to Turkey.

BERLIN — (INS) — German officials failed today to display particular indignation over occupation of German Krupp shipyards at Istanbul by Turkish marines, and contended themselves by terming the move "camouflage for a Franco-British provocatory maneuver."

It was stated reliably that the German ambassador to Turkey, Franz Von Papen, is investigating the affair and may lodge a protest with the Ankara government. A German newspaper outburst also was predicted, but authoritative circles predicted a calm settlement.

A German source said the reich would "refuse to give the British and French an opportunity to manufacture an incident timed to extend the war."

5 CHILDREN DIE AS HOMES BURN

Stove Explosions Blamed For Blazes in Michigan.

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Five small children died in fires which destroyed two homes in Michigan last night and yesterday.

At Flint, three children burned when flames started by a stove explosion swept the home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard McBean. A neighbor rescued Lila Rae, 2, and Randall, 4, but they died in a hospital and an infant boy perished in the flames.

Near Muskegon, an oil stove explosion also was blamed for a fire which demolished the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Kueny. Roger, 8, and Mary Jane, 7, were burned fatally.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— President Roosevelt stuck by his guns today and insisted that actual government figures prove the total over-all debt is lower today than it was in 1932

The chief executive said that taking everything into consideration it was three or four billion dollars less

WISCONSIN SEEN TESTING GROUND

Roosevelt and Garner Entered in Bid for Delegates; Vote Strength to Be Gaged.

Democratic organization leaders in the state already have entered Mr. Roosevelt in the race.

Thomas E. Dewey of New York has filed in Illinois on the Republican ticket, and last night challenged other aspirants in his party to run against him.

It appeared, however, that Rep. Hamilton Fish of New York would be his only opponent.

More Extensive Test.

The Wisconsin primary appeared to promise a much more extensive test of the strength of Republican presidential aspirants.

Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he would wait until after a Republican state meeting in Wisconsin on Feb. 18 to determine whether he would put a slate of delegates in the field. Friends of Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) already have entered a slate, as have friends of Dewey.

Dewey Leaves on Campaign Tour.

CHICAGO — (INS) — Thomas E. Dewey sped westward on the first major swing of his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination today, leaving behind him a challenge to all other candidates to enter the Illinois primaries "and let the people choose between us."

Thus far the New York district attorney has been the only Republican candidate to file for a place on Illinois' presidential preference ballot.

During a five hour stop-over in Chicago, Dewey conferred with Illinois Republican leaders and dined at the home of his cousin and Illinois campaign manager, Leonard C. Reid. He departed at 11:15 last night on the Milwaukee road for a tour of the northwest, the highspot of which will be a Lincoln day address at Portland, Ore., Monday night.

Parties Jockey on Convention Dates.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Democratic strategy in authorizing their national chairman, James A. Farley, to set their convention date today provoked a Republican determination to hold the GOP conclave early enough to permit an old-fashioned campaign.

The Republicans, however, were divided over whether to hold their convention in traditional mid-June or to delay it into July. In either event, there was no Republican sentiment for an August or September convention as hinted at by President Roosevelt some time ago. The Republicans want time enough to sell their opposition to the country.

FORMER CITY RESIDENT DIES

Rites for Mrs. Lois Shaver Will Be Held Monday.

Mrs. Lois Schlegel Shaver, 68, a former resident of Mansfield, died at the home of her sister, Mrs. Albert Reamsnider, Washington township, today after a lingering illness. She was the widow of John Shaver and was born in Shreve, March 3, 1871.

Surviving are four brothers, John Cowell of Springmill, Edward of Ashland, Charles of Perrysville, and Clyde of Mansfield, and three sisters, Mrs. Charles Gretzinger of Perrysville, Mrs. D. L. Cassell of Butler and Mrs Reamsnider. She had resided in Mansfield 20 years.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be conducted at 3 p. m. Monday. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

SOME CRADLE!

Eight-Pound Baby Born in Union Terminal at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—He's only a few hours old now, but when he learns to talk he can point to Cleveland's towering Union terminal and say: "That's my birthplace."

For him, life began in the women's washroom of the terminal. A few moments earlier, his mother stepped from a street car and summoned a washroom attendant, then collapsed. The eight-pound baby and his mother are "doing nicely."

BOARD REJECTS INDEPENDENTS

Cites State Law in Turning Down 2 Who Sought to Run in Special Election.

Citing a state ruling against independent candidates in a special election, the Richland county election board today turned down two prospective candidates who sought to run for congress on an independent ticket at the Feb. 27 election.

Names of the two men were not revealed by the election board, but George C. Balliet, president, said both were from outside Richland county.

The prospective candidates sought to oppose Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown, Democrat, and J. Harry McGregor, West Lafayette, Republican, party nominees, for the 17th district congressional post left vacant by the death of Congressman William A. Ashbrook of Johnstown.

The county election board was expected to complete the official count today of the votes cast in the special primary Tuesday in the 17th district. A. F. Porter, board clerk, said the count so far had resulted in only minor changes of two or three votes which would not affect the outcome.

While the board was still wrestling with the special congressional primary vote, another Republican candidate for the nomination for sheriff in May obtained petitions today from the board.

He was Fred A. Stecker, 74 Park avenue west, a salesman, the third Republican in the race for the nomination.

Louis 1 to 7 Choice to Defeat Godoy Tonight

By SID FEDER

NEW YORK —(AP)— Along about 10:30 tonight, unless all signs are screwy, Joe Lewis will be ready to sit down to his first fried chicken in six weeks, still heavyweight champion of the world.

* * *

That gives him half an hour, or approximately seven rounds of his scheduled 15-round title go with Arturo Goday, the Chilean challenger, which is slated to get under way at 10 p. m. (EST) in Madison Square Garden before a crowd of more than 18,000. And not even Arturo's relatives down there in Iquique think the Brown Bomber will need any more time than that to dispose of this ninth aspirant to his heavyweight throne.

Arturo of the Andes could make fistic history by taking the crown away from the dusky one-man wrecking crew, but so could the statue of Billie Tenn dive off the top of Philadelphia's city hall into the Delaware river. That's about as much chance as the boys and girls are giving the rough, tough Godoy and his South American way.

The odds-layers still were holding Louis a 1 to 7 favorite today, but if you had any folding money to put on 27-year-old Arturo's nose, you could get almost any price you named.

Godoy's best chance appeared to be in staying in a crouch and crowding in close as long as possible. Because, just as sure as it happened to Tony Gallento and Paulino Uzcudun before him, as soon as Arturo comes out of the shell to take a peek at what's happening, there's going to be a slight explosion—right on the end of his chin.

Remembering from Godoy's previous United States invasion a couple of years back that he is a better-than-average body puncher and considerably more adept in the crouching, bobbing, crowding style than is two-ton Tony, this corner figures the Chilean fisherman can stick around for a while. He's going to get curious along about the sixth round. He'll come to the surface, and any time after the fifth ends, so will Arturo's challenge, this corner believes.

As usual, Louis isn't doing his work for nothing.

The greatest box office attraction since Dempsey, will lure some 18,000 to 19,000 into paying about $110,000 to see him roll out his artillery.

Of this, Louis is to receive 40 per cent, less taxes, or about $40,000, thereby boosting his ring earnings in the five years since he started to punch for pay to more than $1,700,000. Godoy figures to pick up about $17,500, along with a sore chin and, probably, assorted aches and pains.

MANSFIELD has gained much prominence in amateur fistic circles since the promotional days of Harry Herbrand.

In the early 30's, Herbrand was the power behind the amateur boxing movement in this city, and the sport has grown by leaps and bounds since then.

Herbrand originated the Y. M. C. A. tournament, which was later taken over by the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Today this tournament is one of the major fistic carnivals in these parts.

The annual tournament has produced many outstanding ringsters, with Beauford Glover the star of the lot. His advancement to the championship in the Cleveland Golden Gloves speaks well of his ability.

Glover came out of the tournament the most talked of fighter in the competition, and is rated as one of the real stars of the Cleveland team, which will make appearances in Chicago and Boston during the next few weeks.

Another member of the Cleveland team who has appeared in past Mansfield tournaments is George George of Lorain.

With Glover, Paul Carbetta, Al Sauers and Jake Zacharias available again this year, the coming J. A. C. boxing tournament should be the most successful in the history of amateur boxing in this city.

Rivaling in price ringside seats for a world's championship boxing match, first row seats for the National A. A. U. handball tournament in Detroit will sell for $22.50. Second row seats will sell for $15, third row for $10 and fourth for $7.50.

Pays Vern Heiser Fine Compliment.

ONE of the finest compliments ever paid a Mansfield athlete was voiced by Stacy Hall of Columbus, light heavyweight wrestling champion of the world and assistant coach at Ohio State, at the Finnish Fund show on which he appeared earlier this week.

"Vern Heiser was potentially the greatest amateur light-heavy wrestler I ever saw," Hall stated.

Heiser was under Hall's wing for two years and after developing into one of the best wrestling bets at Ohio State, he quit school.

"There isn't a light-heavy in the Big Ten today who could have beaten Heiser," the champion boasted. "He had the strongest pair of legs I ever saw on a fellow."

Heiser, who has not done any wrestling since leaving Ohio State, started his amateur mat career at the Mansfield high under J. C. Gorman. He also starred in football as a Tyger.

Vern was one of four brothers to gain recognition in athletics at the high school. Others were Jennings, who is developing into a first-class bowler, and Jim and Daryl, who performed on the grid for Ashland college last fall.

A promising Eastern featherweight has hung up his gloves and is looking for a job. He found the sport didn't pay. Engaged in 24 bouts and earned $950, of which more than half went to his manager, for seconds, gymnasium fees, licenses and the like. Received $50 for one bout in New York, but wound up with only $2 after paying off his manager and seconds, buying a meal, paying for a license and having it notarized.

Boast Only Unbeaten Club In County.

MUCH has been written about the Bellville Blueiays, who have suffered only one defeat this season, and very little about Shiloh's Drummer Boys Shiloh is the only undefeated club in the county this year.

The Shiloh club now looms as one of the more dangerous contenders in this year's county tournament, which will be played at the high school later this month.

Shiloh has won something like nine straight ball games, and it has already copped the Twin-Valley league crown.

'I'll Stop Godoy'—Louis: Foe's Confident, Too.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Both Joe Louis and Arturo Godoy predicted victory today in their final statements on the eve of tonight's heavyweight championship bout:

Louis: "The title is safe. I'll make it as fast as I can. I'll stop Godoy. Don't know just what round but he won't be in there long. I'm as fit as I ever was in my life and I'm not fixin' to hit that deck and take the count. I wish Mr. Godoy luck but I'm afraid it won't be good luck, nohow."

Godoy: "I have waited a long time for this chance. I know a lot about "Louie" and his style. I know the way to whip him. He won't land his knockout punches on me. I am not easy man to hit hard. I have met hard hitters, plenty of them. I will fight clean."

TWO quintets that were picked as pre-season favorites to make it an interesting championship race in the Friendly House Senior A league didn't live up to expectations in the opening half which ended on the settlement hardwood last night.

The clubs, Augustine's Canfields and the Rex Billiards, both suffered setbacks and as a result were at least three games behind the Raemelton Farm club, winners of the first half title.

The Cuemen, defending champions, dropped a 41 to 36 verdict to the fourth place Isaly Dairy five, while the Canfields bowed to the last-pace Daley Cafe combine, 32 to 27.

In the other game, the Raemelton Farm cagers stopped the Moose Lodge five, 28 to 23.

Isaly's triumph enabled it to climb into a tie for third place with the Augustines, while the Billiards remained in the runner-up berth, a game ahead.

Daley's Cafe, in registering its second win, was behind, 12 to 9, at the rest period, but staged a third-frame rally to pile up a lead it never relinquished. The winners led, 21 to 15, as play was resumed in the last quarter. Fred Brubach paced the Cafe club with 13 points.

Shaffer scored 19 points as the Dairys upset the Billiards. After securing a one-point lead in the opening period, the Isaly team fell behind, but ran wild in the last two stanzas to emerge with the decision.

Paced by Kenny Hardin, who tallied 12 markers, the Farm quint hopped into the lead in the opening chapter and never trailed. Matt Hager added 11 points to the winners' cause.

Mohican Chevrolets Set Pace With 2844

Adams Leads Automen to High Score In "B" League; Thelma Linster Scores 563 Total.

CLOSING their series with a 1016 game, the Mohican Chevrolets hung up a 2844 count to pace all team scoring at the Meder alleys last night. Led by Adams' 636, the Chevrolets opened with scores of 926 and 902 as they swept their match with the Heilman Grocers.

The Ringside Cafe was next high in the scoring with a 2793 total, which was climaxed with a 1036 game. The string was good for two wins over the Mansfield Rugs.

Harrod, with a 618 series, led Ohio Public Service to a pair of wins over the Mansfield Printers, Southern Hotel won two tilts from the Kochheiser Sports, Shelby Cycles added two wins at the expense of the Yuncker Sports and the Possum Run Golfers took two from the Satterlee Restaurant.

Orland Grable of the Shear Room team whipped up a 604 total to lead the Westinghouse league scoring.

Thelma Linster of the Richland Printers held the spotlight in the Women's City league with a 563 total, which was produced from games of 226, 166 and 171. She led her team to two wins over the All-Stars, led by Florence Handwork's 521.

The only other 500 total was shot by Mary McMullen, who reached the 516 figures as paced the Brenner Jewelers to a clean sweep over the Long Bar.

* * *

Shelley's Candies took two tilts from the Carek Florists and the Moderne Beauty Salon did likewise against Kobacker's store.

Silver Skates Meet Postponed

The Silver Skates ice tournament scheduled for North Lake park Saturday has been postponed until next week, Harry Mehock, director of the carnival, announced today.

Mehock stated that the ice was too rough to permit competition in the event, which is sponsored by the physical education department of Mansfield schools for elementary, junior and senior high students.

Hoffman About Set on Lineup

Tyger Coach Not Likely to Continue Experiments.

While not satisfied with recent performances of several of his first-string cagers, Coach Vern Hoffman is not expected to do much more experimenting with his lineup.

A number of the reserves have shown promise, but Hoffman indicated that it was rather late to gamble with inexperienced men with the district tournament only a few weeks in the offing.

Jack Shiplet and Harry Phillips are not what might be described as experienced players, but they have shown Hoffman enough under fire to be called first-stringers for the present, at least.

* * *

Shiplet will in all probability be paired with Don Rose Saturday night when the Tygers face the Shelby Whippets on the home court.

Russ Beer, of course, will be at center, with Phillips and Gene Miller at the forward posts.

The Shelby game is the only contest on the Tygers' schedule this week.

Fremont's Future Depends on Fans

FREMONT—(AP)—The future or organized baseball here was put up to the fans today. Robert Reetenwald, president of Fremont club of the Ohio State league, said $3,000 in common stock must be sold within two weeks to clear up standing debts.

"If the stock sale fails, organized baseball in Fremont will also fail," he declared.

Carl Steinle, vice-president of the league, advised club directors to press the sale since March 1 is the deadline for signing contracts. The Green Sox still own seven players.

PURDUE-INDIANA GAME HOLDS BIG TEN INTEREST

CHICAGO —(AP)— The Hoosier state, always a hotbed of basketball, will supply the principal fireworks tomorrow night when the Big Ten begins the last lap of its conference title race.

Purdue the undefeated league leader, and Indiana university, tied for second place in the standings will battle it out at Bloomington.

Michigan, meantime, will seek to maintain its contending position with a victory over Northwestern at Evanston. Minnesota plays at Illinois, Ohio State at Chicago and Wisconsin at Iowa.

Blue Goose Cagers Annex 2nd Round

Sohioans Trim Westinghouse, 59 to 47, After Chocolates Stop Yuncker Sports, 31 to 30.

PRODUCING the best brand of basketball displayed in the City Class A league this season, Pete Hergatt's Blue Goose Sohioans hung up a 59 to 47 victory over the Westinghouse Electrics on the Mansfield high hardwood last night to win the second and final round championship.

The Blue Goose entry will compete against the Yuncker Sports and Shelley Chocolates in the league title series to be staged later this month. The Sports and Chocolate tied the Sohioans for the first round crown, leaving Westinghouse, second in the round completed last night, the only team eliminated.

Shelley's team finished in third place by halting the Sports, 31 to 30, in a thriller in the other game on last night's program.

Hergatt's ball players showed the few spectators out at the Tyger lair last night some of the best passing witnessed in the league this season as they registered their fifth straight triumph. The only defeat suffered by the Sohioans in six league games was administered by the Shelley quintet in the opening game.

With the more experienced Tom Farrell being a steadying influence, the Sohioans, led by Bob Wilkins, jumped into a 14 to 6 lead in the opening period and were never headed.

Going into the third period leading 26 to 13, the Blue Goose hoopsters appeared to have the ball game cinched, but the Electrics staged a comeback that reduced their advantage to 11 points.

Westinghouse kept plugging away in the fourth frame and at one time was only five points behind the title-bound Sohioans. However, Blue Goose immediately lengthened its lead and coasted to victory.

The Blue Goose-Westinghouse game was one of the wildest staged in the league this season, a total of 34 fouls being called.

Willard Lockhart, with 13 points; Farrell and Kenny Lockhart, with a dozen apiece, and Wilkins, with 11, led the Blue Goose scoring. John Schuster and Howard Poole were high for the Electrics with nine apiece.

The opening game on the bill was a humdinger, and it was necessary for the Chocolates to rally to win.

The Shelley club trailed almost all the way and cinched the ball game in the final minute when Bob Boyd split the strings from the corner. The Sports were offered two opportunities to knot the count from the foul line after Boyd's basket, but both were off their mark.

The Yuncker club even blanked the Candymen in the first frame to take a 5 to 0 lead, and the Shelley team did not grab its first lead until near the end of the half when Joe Atton counted to put his team in front 12 to 10. The Chocolates led 14 to 12 at the intermission.

* * *

Shelley's men again faltered in the third period to permit the Sports to go ahead 24 to 17, but they outscored their foe 14 to 6 in the last frame to triumph.

Boyd and Noel Morgan led the Chocolates with 10 points apiece and Al Stickler was high for the losers with 11.

Bushnell Sharpshooters Win City Grade School Crown

Outpoints Prospect, 46 to 24, to Climb Two Games Ahead of Carpenter, Beaten By Newman.

THE Grade School basketball league still has a set of games to play—but the championship will not be at stake.

Bushnell's sharpshooting cagers made sure of that yesterday at Senior high by swamping Prospect, 46 to 24, to annex the title, while, Carpenter, its closest rival, fell two games behind by dropping a 19 to 17 decision to Newman.

The Bowman hoopsters, the defending champions, climbed into a tie with Carpenter for the runner-up post by handing Western a 21 to 5, drubbing.

Hedges stopped Woodland, 22 to 3, and Brinkerhopp defeated West Fifth, 19 to 16, in the other contests. It was Woodland's 17th straight defeat.

With Bob Jones collecting 28 points, the Bushnell combine had little trouble in winning the crown. The new champions led, 14 to 4, in the first quarter, 30 to 14, at halftime, and, 40 to 22 as the clubs went into the final frame.

Carpenter saw its chances of fighting it out for the title fade away when Newman staged a thrilling last-period rally to emerge the winner. Carpenter held a 14 to 10 lead at the end of the third period. Butler paced the sixth-place Newman team with 17 points.

George Thomas dumped in 18 points to lead Bowman. The Bowman outfit was ahead, 13 to 0, at the half.

* * *

Hedges turned in the best defensive game, limiting Woodland to a free throw in the opening half and a field goal in the last half.

PROFIT SELLING SLACKENS BRISK OPENING SWING

Extreme Gains Reduced or Erased After List Extends Thursday's Rally.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks encountered profit selling in today's market after extending Thursday's rally by fractions to around 2 points.

Dealings, fast on the opening swing, slackened substantially as extreme gains were reduced or erased in many cases.

Bonds were selectively higher, as were commodities. Foreign markets were irregular.

While business news, generally, seemed a bit more encouraging, most traders were said to be not entirely convinced yesterday's last-minute recovery in the stock division was other than a technical comeback after a lengthy stalemate.

Cheerful marketwise were the annual statements of Chrysler and U. S. Rubber. Both disclosed 1939 profits about double those of the year before.

Week-end merchandising surveys provided a prop for sentiment, these indicating the American spending urge was keeping store activities at a high level.

The Dun & Bradstreet summary placed the week's retail volume at 5 to 10 per cent above the aggregate in the like period last year.

Financial quarters studied, without much enthusiasm the analysis of the securities and exchange commission showing that new securities registrations under the securities act of 1933 slumped to $1,761,416,000 in 1939 from $2,422,590,000 the year before.

U. S. LAUNCHES PEACE TALKS WITH NEUTRALS

Hull Bares Plan as President Announces Welles Will Tour Belligerent Capitals.

been informed in advance of Welles' proposed visit and the purposes for which his tour is being made. Hull indicated that the arrangements for Welles' reception in each country have been completed.

He said Welles probably would be accompanied by one assistant or a secretary—probably someone from the state department who could be of major assistance to Welles on his tour.

Welles will go first to Italy, then probably to Germany and from there to France and Britain.

President Roosevelt said that Welles' sole mission would be to obtain confidential information on conditions in the four countries.

The president added that Welles would not be authorized to make any proposals or commitments on behalf of the United States.

It was presumed, however, that the information gathered by Welles would be used by the president and Secretary of State Cordell Hull to help them determine whether the time is approaching when this country might be in a position to help formulate peace proposals.

A full statement issued by Mr. Roosevelt said:

"At the request of the president, the Undersecretary of State, Mr. Summer Welles, will proceed shortly to Europe to visit Italy, France, Germany and Great Britain. This visit is solely for the purpose of advising the president and the secretary of states as to present conditions in Europe.

"Mr. Welles will, of course, be authorized to make no proposals or commitments in the name of the government of the United States.

The president said he did not know the exact date when Welles would leave, or by what route he would travel. He cautioned reporters at his press conference against enlarging upon or embellishing the official statement.

Clear Way for Finn Loan Bill.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—While the senate cleared the way today for action on legislation to make possible a $20,000,000 non-military loan to Finland, the administration was reported considering the sale to Scandinavian countries of surplus arms left over from World war days.

President Roosevelt conferred late yesterday with Secretaries Hull, Woodring and Edison, and the discussions were said to have concerned the advisability of disposing of surplus army and navy guns.

A Norwegian official mission has been inquiring into the possibility of purchasing artillery in the United States. Prince Bertil, son of the Swedish crown prince and head of a Swedish purchasing mission, also has been received by Mr. Roosevelt.

The army has on hand hundreds of field guns and large stores of rifles unused since the World war.

Officials said that Mr. Roosevelt has the authority to declare the arms surplus material and to be subject to disposal.

Strong support for the Finnish loan legislation was evident in the senate, but leaders said that a final vote might not be reached until next week. The bill, by Senator Brown (D-Mich), would double the $100,000,000 capital of the export-import bank.

The bank increase would be financed by the RFC, but economy advocates have contended that if there were any losses on loans, the treasury eventually would have to make them good.

Chairman Pittman (D-Nev) of the foreign relations committee, which approved the bill 12 to 6, said there was no doubt in his mind that the senate would give it the same overwhelming endorsement that it placed yesterday on another Finnish aid proposal.

Kennedy Scores Taft In First Gubernatorial Blast

MAKES BITTER ATTACK DURING FARM MEETING

Assails 'Multi-Millionaire' Senator in Address at Wayne County Institute.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Using a GOP presidential possibility—U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft—as a target, former Secretary of State William J. Kennedy today fired the first heavy verbal barrage in the campaign for the Ohio Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Addressing the Wayne county Farmers Institute at Dalton, near Wooster, Kennedy flayed Taft as a "multi-millionaire" senator who went to Miami "to get his political advice and votes."

While he declined to amplify the latter assertion, political observers pointed out that Kennedy apparently meant Taft had arranged to be in Miami recently during a meeting of the American Federation of Labor's executive council to further his presidential aspirations. In his speech, the Clevelander also appealed for a "unity program" between farmers and "urban consumers."

Meanwhile, at least four other candidates prepared to swing into action in the pre-primary battle for votes, and there was a possibility that other party members and leaders would join the Democratic "free-for-all."

Those who have announced publicly they would seek the nomination are former Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy, Columbus; James T. Flynn, Sandusky attorney; Lawrence Baker, Columbus, and Frank A. Dye, Columbus attorney.

James Marker, Versailles, was expected to announce his candidacy next week. Democratic national committeeman Charles Sawyer, Cincinnati, unsuccessful candidate in 1938, was expected to confirm or deny reports that he would be a candidate within a few days.

Still considered as possibilities in the Democratic contest were former Lieut. Gov. Harold G. Mosier, former Gov. Martin L. Davey, Walter J. Heer, chairman of the Democratic executive committee in Franklin county, and John Owens, Columbus, president of the Ohio CIO and head of district six of the United Mine Workers of America.

While competitors marked time, Kennedy appealed for rural and urban support in his Dalton speech. He asserted that a "division between rural and urban Ohio has been responsible for legislative confusion during the last 10 or 15 years."

FACES COURT IN HAMMER DEATH

Youth to Enter Plea Today; Victim's Wife, Son Enter Not Guilty Pleas.

(By Associated Press)

BELLEFONTAINE— Don Slater, 18-year-old lunch room waiter, was called on today to answer a first degree murder charge that he slew his employer's husband because the man abused her.

Mrs. Minnie Jenkins, 47, and her son, Merlin, 18, pleaded innocent late yesterday to similar charges in the Feb. 1 hammer slaying of Fred Jenkins, 56. Both are held in jail in default of $50,000 and $25,000 bond, respectively.

Prosecutor J. Ewing Smith said the mother and son would be permitted to attend funeral services for Jenkins in Sidney today under guard. Jenkins, a telegrapher, was beaten to death while asleep in his Huntsville home.

Slater's written confession said that Jenkins struck him the evening of the slaying and had threatened to kill Mrs. Jenkins, her son and a daughter, Smith reported.

Smith said he believed Mrs. Jenkins and Merlin knew Jenkins was to be killed because Slater admitted telling the woman that he was "just going to put an end to it."

He quoted Slater as saying that Mrs. Jenkins replied, "God will straighten everything out."

Slater struck Jenkins with the hammer, the confession continued, then called Mrs. Jenkins to assist him in putting the body in an automobile which Slater drove to Miamisburg, 75 miles south of here. He placed the body in a ditch, then returned and obtained Merlin's aid in disposing of Jenkins' bed, the prosecutor said.

WHY VITAMIN D

Vitamin D is the so-called rickets-preventing or "sunshine vitamin." Normal bone growth in children is dependent upon depositing adequate amounts of calcium and phosphorus in the bone structure. Without vitamin D, absorption and utilization of calcium and phosphorus are impaired, and bone development is distorted - the classic symptoms of rickets follow. Rickets can be cured with vitamin D, but unfortunately the ill effects are often permanent —bowed legs, enlarged joints and curvature of the spine.—Consult your physician first.

MAYOR OFFERS JOB TO FATHER PLANNING TO GIVE SONS AWAY

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — Two days ago, Mr. and Mrs. Fred McNeil of Columbus offered to give away the two youngest of their five sons because they lacked food and other necessities. Today, it appeared that the family could be kept together.

Mayor Floyd F. Green of Columbus asked McNeil, a 40-year-old WPA worker, to come to his office today to talk about a job. If the mayor finds steady work for McNeil, the frail sons, Wilbur, 6, and Paul, 4, can remain with their parents.

Mayor Green wrote:

"As a father I realize the great sacrifice that would be yours if you were compelled to part with two of your children. As mayor of one of the finest cities of the state of Ohio, I request that before any further developments occur, that you call at my office for a personal interview and I believe arrangements can be made for employment, which will give your family ample care."

The mayor did not say what kind of a job he had for McNeil, nor how much it would pay. McNeil for months has received never more than $15 a week from WPA.

The McNeils became discouraged because their five sons were underweight, needed milk and other substantial foods that the meager income could not provide. Another son, Gerald, died last spring at the age of two from bronchitis, rickets and undernourishment.

The parents decided reluctantly that the family would be better off if Wilbur and Paul were given to some family or families with sufficient means to give them proper diet and care. They thought, too, that it would help them care for the other boys, Fred, 14; William, 12, and Herbert, 7.

Immediately, they received offers from people who wanted to adopt the two youngest or keep them until McNeil could get back on his feet.

GUARD MEXICAN AFTER SHOOTING

Bodyguard Surrounds Home; Aide Slain by Fusillade.

MEXICO CITY —(AP)— A bodyguard of 150 soldiers was assigned today to General Juan Andreu Almazan and his followers after an apparent attempt to assassinate the anti-government presidential candidate.

A band of about eight men, police said, surrounded the private home in which Almazan was a guest and fired several volleys of rifle and pistol shots into the house early yesterday morning at Zacapu, Michocoan state. The candidate escaped injury but his personal aide, Lieut. Elias Somoano, was killed as he stood outside the house answering the assailant's fire.

ILLNESS FATAL

Report No Change In Condition of Canada's Governor.

OTTAWA —(AP)— The condition of Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, apparently still remained critical early today. No bulletins were issued from the government house during the night and an attendant there said "all is still quiet here; there is no news."

Lord Tweedsmuir, 64, suffered a concussion last Tuesday in a fall caused by a fainting spell.

BARES STORY OF TORTURE IN LOUDONVILLE

Man, 60, Found Unconscious in Home, Says He Was Severely Burned by Robber.

(By Staff Correspondent)

LOUDONVILLE—The story of how a 60-year-old man was tortured and robbed came to light today when the victim gave his own version of it after officers refused to take the case seriously and declared there "was no mystery about it."

Earl Weirick, 60, and unmarried, is confined to the home of a relative, Mrs. Sadie Berra, and still suffering from severe burns on his hands which caused his finger nails to drop off.

Weirick was found unconscious in his room on the Berra property but apart from the main house on the morning of Jan. 28, his clothing torn and the house ransacked, according to Mrs. Berra. There was a severe cut on the back of his head and blood on his clothing.

Authorities investigated but refused to reveal their findings or to comment on the case "officially." "Unofficially," however, they let it be known that they thought the man had fallen against a hot stove in his room soon after returning home from town.

Mrs. Berra says there was no fire in the stove and that the bucket of coal and kindling she had placed there Saturday afternoon were still untouched Sunday morning after Weirick was found.

Weirick maintained today that he had been tortured by someone who believed that he had recently inherited money concealed in his room. He doesn't remember anything about it except that he "struck at some one in self-defense." He says he has a faint memory of intolerable pain but can't remember what caused it.

Both sides of his hands were severely burned.

Weirick recently inherited some money from an aunt. He says that he went to the bank on Saturday and cashed a small check. He spent the day downtown and returned to his room that night. His last conscious memory, he says, is of climbing the snow covered bank of the yard and entering his room.

Weirick believes that his hands were burned with acid while he was being questioned as to the whereabouts of his money and while he was in a semi-conscious condition.

Marshal Bert Conrad said he "didn't know much about the case, but I don't think there is any mystery about it." He declined to comment further.

THREATENS CITY WITH LAW SUIT

Official Charges Mansfield Not Complying With New 72-Hour Fireman's Law.

seemed unwise to consider any reductions in the police department at a time when firemen were entitled to a shorter week which council could not see fit to give them.

The police measure was passed by a vote of 7 to 2 over the protests of Police Chief Meade K. Bates who told members that the loss of man-hours would "seriously cripple" the police department.

The ordinance was still unsigned on Mayor Locke's desk today. He has until Feb. 16 to either sign it, veto it or leave it become a law without his signature.

He said today he was studying figures on the man-hour loss and that he probably would make his decision tomorrow.

GREECE WARNS

Europe Told She's Prepared to Go to War If Threatened.

ATHENS — (INS) — Europe was confronted today by a stern warning that Greece is prepared to go to war if her independence is threatened by the present European conflict.

"If we could remain at peace only by crawling," he said, "then it would be preferable not to remain at peace."

FIRE LOSS CUT

Bucyrus Chief Says Damage for Year Hits $15,358.

BUCYRUS — Per capita loss from fire in Bucyrus in 1939 was considerably lower than the 1938 loss, according to the annual report of Fire Chief William F. Mader, submitted today.

Although per capita loss was decreased, the percentage of loss covered by insurance was smaller than that paid to property owners last year.

Total loss to buildings last year was estimated at $10,358 of which only $8,328 was paid in insurance. Of the 1938 loss of $15,577, insurance was paid in the sum of $14,925.

A total of 69 alarms were answered during the year.

GIVEN POWERS TO SUPPRESS IRA

De Valera Gets Court Ruling To Intern Irish Citizens.

DUBLIN — (U.P.) — A supreme court decision today gave Premier Eamon De Valera power to suppress the Irish Republican army under his "offenses against the state" bill.

By a majority decision, the court held that the bill, passed by the parliament and put up to it for consideration, was not repugnant to the constitution.

Under the bill, now law, the government may intern Irish citizens in concentration camps on suspicion of terrorism. Previously only foreigners could be so held. Formal trial on specific charges will not be necessary.

DEATH MYSTERY

Farmer Found Dead With Chest Crushed, Skull Fractured.

TOLEDO —(AP)— William M. Shapiro, Lucas county coroner, today investigated the death of Fred Stroh, 63, whose body was found in the dining room of his farm home a mile east of here by his wife and daughter.

Shapiro said Stroh died of a fractured skull and a crushed chest, declaring the victim might have been kicked by an animal in the barn.

TRANSLATION OF FINNISH NOVEL ON BOOK LIST

Library Adds 'Sun and Storm,' Epic of Finnish Peasant Who Hated Russians.

The translation of a Finnish novel, a story of early New England and a copy of Lloyd C. Douglas' latest novel are included on the list of fiction added to the Public library shelves this week.

SUN AND STORM by Unto Seppanen, translated by Kenneth C. Kaufman, is an epic of a Finnish peasant who dreamed of establishing a clan and overcoming the hated Russian overlords. The author was born at Helsinki and lives on the Karelian isthmus. Four of his works, including this novel, have won the state literary prize. The translation brings to us the full descriptive and poetic beauty of this powerful novel.

PAUL REVERE SQUARE by Louise Andrews Kent is a novel of Boston and Vermont. This friendly human story of Diana Joceleyn who comes to live with her rich Uncle Nicholas appeals because of its fundamental belief in the courage and endurance of human beings.

A copy of DR. HUDSON'S SECRET JOURNAL by Lloyd C. Douglas has been presented to the Library by the Mansfield Sorosis club in memory of Miss Helen Winslow Rhodes.

Other fiction: MURDER WITHOUT RISK, by Adams; RED RANGE, Cunningham; JONATHAN STAGGE, Webb; SONDRA O'MOORE, Willoughby.

FARMWARD MARCH by William Jay Hale is an explanation of the development of the new science of chemurgy. Dr. Hale is chief of the Organic Chemical Research division of the Dow Chemical company of Midland, Mich.

He believes that modern organic chemistry affords opportunity for full utilization of the agricultural output of our country. He describes the three distinct stages of vegetable matter directly serviceable to industrial use: cellulose, vegetable oils and ethyl alcohol, showing the means of maintaining a balance between industry and agriculture.

THE CHANGING WEST by William Allen White offers an economic theory about our golden age. The editor of the Empora (Kan.) Gazette sees in the economic and social development of the past 100 years in the 24 states which have been formed, the first example of a free, literate people using their own devices to develop the wealth of a region.

U. S. CAMERA, 1940 edited by T. J. Maloney celebrates the 100th year of photography with reproductions of over three hundred pictures by America's leading photographers. The plates are arranged in sections by subjects.

MODERN PHOTOGRAPHY, 1938-9 edited by C. G. Holme is the Studio Annual of Comera Art. The reproductions in this eighth annual issue show an advance in photography as an art.

A SMATTERING OF IGNORANCE by Oscar Levant is a delightful collection of anecdotes and humorous quips about contemporary musicians and conductors of renown.

There'll Be Lutz on Both Tickets In Prosecutor Races

Theodore H. Lutz, former Shelby law director, today became the second Lutz to seek the nomination for Richland county prosecutor at the May 14 primary. He is a Republican.

Assistant Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz already is in the race for the nomination on the Democratic ticket.

The Shelby man is the third Republican to obtain petitions for prosecutor from the election board. Atty. R. J. Nichols and Raymond J. Brown, Mansfield, had previously announced.

David W. Cook, Shelby, was circulating nominating petitions today for state representative from Richland county on the Democratic ticket. He was defeated at the primary two years ago by Ralph Lutz of Lexington, incumbent.

Representative Lutz who is in Washington state on business, has not announced whether he will be a candidate for re-election. He is considering entering the 17th district congressional race, but pointed out that he won't have a statement to make until after the special election on Feb. 27.

An action seeking to set aside the will of the late Mike Sferro of Mansfield had been filed today in common pleas court by Mrs. Mary Sferro, John Sferro, and Frances Sferro, his widow, son, and daughter, respectively.

They contend that the paper filed for probate following Mr. Sferro's death last May was not his will and they ask that administration of the estate be suspended until the question is decided in court.

Defendant in the action is Mrs. Lucy Siciliano, a daughter of Mr. Sferro, and one of the legatees named in the will. The widow, Mrs. Sferro, also was to share in the estate. Mrs. Siciliano is executrix of the estate.

PIRATE OF CHATHAM SQUARE by Emma Gelders Sterne—Captain Jones is no longer a pirate. Instead he is the proud engineer of the first steam railway from Harlem to New York in 1839. The real interest in the story concerns the Irish children separated by accident from their father while sailing to New York. They live near the Captain's railroad during their search for Patrick McGilvray.

ENCHANTING JENNY LIND by Laura Benet—While our first story was taking place in America, a young singer was becoming famous in Sweden. Her name is still known as a brilliant concert star. Miss Benet has attempted in this biography to make Jenny Lind still live for young people by giving a true picture of her life for the first 30 years.

Felt Back Would Break Till Mansfield Man Took Vendol

Says he never took anything that gave such grand relief. Advises everyone to try this favorite medicine.

MR. JOB D. NORRIS

"Vendol proved to be exactly what I needed and gave the grandest relief I have enjoyed in a long time," declared Mr. Job D. Norris, of 319 Ninth Ave., Mansfield, a retired U. S. Army Man, in conversation with the Vendol Man a few days ago in Central Drug Store, where he daily meets many people who have taken Vendol and praise it highly.

"I had such aching pains across my back that sometimes felt like it would break. The pains would run down my legs and I often had to rub them before I could get off to sleep.

"I was constipated nearly every day and I took a lot of medicine for this trouble but I like Vendol and the little Vendol laxative tablets better than any I ever tried. They acted nice, easy, and thoroughly and I noticed after Vendol relieved my constipation, that the pains in my back and legs grew less painful; and since taking several bottles I am no longer troubled with backaches.

"I feel so much better since taking Vendol that I am glad to say a good word for it every chance I get.

Vendol has brought needed relief to many persons who had suffered from pains in the back, arms, muscles, and joints where these troubles were due to constipation or need of a mild diuretic action on the kidneys. It is pleasant to take and acts promptly.

Most of all leading druggists sell Vendol and I invite you to come to Central Drug Store, Cor. Main & 4th Sts., ask for me, the Vendol Man, and I will explain all about my medicine and how it can help you just as it has many well known people right here in town.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 9, 1940.

Modern warfare is largely shooting across No Man's Land at somebody you can't see, for reasons you don't understand.

Yes, many Americans feel poor, but almost any other country in the same fix would think it had abounding prosperity.

It will be noted that while the New York supreme court upheld Earl Browder's right to run for congress, the voters saw to it that he didn't run very fast.

Thirtieth Anniversary of Scouting

THE THIRTY YEARS that have elapsed since organization of the Boy Scouts of America have marked the greatest period of material progress the world has ever experienced—with the United States in the forefront of individual and national advancement.

Boys associated with the early days of scouting are among the men of today who are doing things in the workaday world to which they then looked forward with much interest and curiosity.

Few, if any of them, would say that their experience as Boy Scouts lacked value or that it was not helpful in determining their course through later years.

The lessons of scouting, and the practical experience gained along many lines, at a highly impressionable age, is a part of boyhood education the value of which can scarcely be overestimated and it should be an aspiration of the adults of every community to extend the advantages of scout training to as many boys as possible.

Yesterday's inauguration of Boy Scout week observance by permitting selected scouts to become acquainted with the operation of city government is among the fine features of this activity and the interest shown by city officials and employes of various departments is to be commended

It is probable, in fact, that such an arrangement is beneficial to the adults who participate, as well as to the boys, for there cannot fail to be inspiration for grownups in watching the interest and enthusiasm which these "men of tomorrow" carry into everything they do.

Nor would it be a bad idea for adults to occasionally refresh their recollection of the scout oath: "On my honor, I will do my best—To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout law; to help other people at all times; to keep myself physically strong, mentally awake and morally straight."

As rules for right living, the scout oath will impress many as being equally applicable to people of all ages.

Much Money, Little Wealth

A SON of Dr. Francis Townsend, who is carrying on his father's pension plan work, explains the nature of money in this fashion:

"Money is something that we make for ourselves, and when there is a scarcity of it we are just fools. All we have to do is to devise a plan to enable all of us, black or white, to get our hands on money, and then we won't have to worry about relief and poor farms any more."

And if that is all there is to it the economic problem would be very simple and easy. We'd just start printing a lot of money and putting it into circulation, say in the form of dollar bills. We'd insist on people taking them and using them. And when there were enough of them, moving fast enough from pocket to pocket and hand to hand, business would flourish and everybody would be prosperous.

Or wouldn't it work that way? A newspaper man tells of picking up, some years ago, on the sidewalk of Berlin, a bank note for a million marks and normally worth 250,000 American dollars. And he couldn't buy a box of matches with it. Why? Because there was no solid value, no gold or silver, no property, no goods, back of that piece of engraved paper.

Such money was being printed and passed around so plentifully that everybody had a lot of it—so it wasn't worth anything. The same man says he has traveled in many lands, and has always found that the countries with the most money in circulation were the poorest.

Birds That Stay for Winter

A NEW YORK reporter who had never gone in much for bird study was surprised to learn that the metropolis, even in winter, is full of birds.

Recently, for example, between 7:30 a. m. and 5 p. m., a bird lover in New York's Central park saw and identified one merganser, one black-backed gull, 250 herring gulls, one pair woodpecker and one downy, three chickadees, two white-breasted nuthatches, one grackle, five juncos, one field sparrow, six white-throated sparrows, and one each of fox, swamp, song and tarping sparrows. There were, of course, hundreds of English sparrows and thousands of starlings.

The people who know how and where to look have found that, in the course of winter, there may be seen within fifty miles of New York 139 species and sub-species of birds. Loons and bitterns have been found near Brooklyn and one of the latter turned up last summer to startle spectators at the League of Nations fire display.

Other cities have similarly surprising bird visitors. Apparently it is possible to study ornithology without going to the woods or into the wilderness.

WASHINGTON — Republican and Democratic headquarters get out party dope sheets but most fun to read is the "Berlin Bulletin" distributed to newspapers in Washington by the German Embassy.

It comes out every day, with an occasional exception, but like many another work of genius, it is born to blush unseen. We have never seen a line of it quoted in a local paper.

The Bulletin correctly foretold the reaction of the European neutrals to Churchill's speech suggesting the part of neutrals might have in the war. Holland bucked up and said she would defend her neutrality against aggression from any source, which caused the Bulletin many satisfied chuckles.

"The unanimous rejection of the demand of Mr. Churchill that the neutrals join the British war appears to have made the British government a little more cautious," it said.

The Bulletin tries to be moderately objective in some of its reviews, but mostly it is out and out sarcastic about the British. We have read a fair number of issues and haven't seen France mentioned. Sometimes the Bulletin steps in to interpret American sentiment.

Tells of a Paper Silo.

"THE official Japanese protest in connection with the stopping of the Japanese steamer 'Asama Maru' by a British warship and the seizure of 21 German passengers is rated in the American public as the sharpest declaration ever issued by any neutral power since the outbreak of the war," says the Bulletin.

But not all is ribbing the British. The Bulletin tells of the invention of a paper silo. Unlike American silos, which stand up like sawed-off concrete chimneys, the German silo is a "lying-down" affair made of paper. The farmer digs a pit, covers the bottom with a new "bituminous crepe paper," both air-proof and water-proof. In goes the green fodder or grass to be stored. Then a layer of paper is put on top, like a pie-crust. On top of that is a layer of sand or earth.

"All green fodder which is preserved in this fashion keeps its fragrant smell, its fresh green color, and, as tests have proven, the cattle like it. . . . It is so cheap that the small-scale farmer who up to this time could not afford a silo now can make himself one. This new process has also proved itself successful in the storing of potatoes."

We Had the Idea.

THE German government got the idea for the Bulletin from the U. S. state department. Each day the department sends out to its embassies a digest of important news Naval radio distributes it, practically without cost.

The Bulletin comes directly to the German embassy in Morse code, in English, from Germany. The Germans expanded on the U. S. idea by distributing the bulletin to local papers.

When we heard about the Morse operator we couldn't help but feel sorry for him when this item came along the wire.

"The Viennese fashion industry has under the name of 'Gemeinschaft Wiener Modewarenerzeuger' entered into a production and selling union... (whose) most important task is the encouragement and development of exports." Paris, according to the Bulletin, is slipping as a fashion center

THE NEW DEAL'S SEVEN-YEAR-OLD BULL CALF

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Rouben Mamoulian, the movie director, wandered down Fifth avenue the other night on a sort of busman's holiday and dropped into Rockefeller Center to hear Toscanini broadcast with his Symphony orchestra. Mamoulian, although now devoting himself entirely to stage and film direction, still runs after such classical musical performances, a hangover from the days when he used to direct grand opera at Rochester, N. Y.

But, what made him sit up with a start was when Toscanini began directing an operatic number from "Die Meistersinger." Toscanini's lips were moving with great rapidity all during the performance. It was only after the broadcast that Mamoulian learned that Toscanini sings every operatic number in his concerts. Fortunately, he has a low voice and can't get enough volume to carry over the broadcast. But, he sings with enthusiasm, and enjoys himself.

THE uniform of the doorman at La Conga is supposed to be the exact replica of the uniform of a Havana policeman—a fact that has occasioned a few disturbing moments in the minds of the gentlemen who own that place of Latin-American entertainment.

Recently an attache of the Cuban consulate chanced by and was somewhat distressed to find his country's dignity "sullied" in this manner. Wherefore a protest. To the management.

Defending its position, the management pointed out that this doorman, Charlie, was an admirable fellow. Clean record. Courteous, well-liked by everyone. He gave dignity and character to the uniform. If the Senor would look at it from another light. . . .

Which he did, of course, and now Charlie has a new uniform—a winter uniform, just like the cops in Havana wear, when winter comes. This may seem trivial to you, but it was a serious business to the attache, the management, and, of course, Charlie.

NOW let us consider Joan Edwards, who is Paul Whiteman's vocalist, and a very pretty one at that. She likes very much a song in the musical "Too Many Girls," which is known, somewhat appropriately, as "I Like to Recognize The Tune"—which is a slam at orchestras which bury a melody until it is unrecognizable under a heavy drift of jitter-notes. Dick Rodgers wrote it.

He wandered into the Terrace room the other night, now decorated in an original blue (chemists invented this particular shade) just for Paul Whiteman. Miss Edwards, spying Rodgers, waited until she sang a particularly "original" arrangement of "I Like to Recognize The Tune," then went over to say hello.

How did you like my hot arrangement of "I Like To Recognize The Tune?" she greeted him.

Rodgers shook his head sorrowfully. "I didn't recognize it."

Listen, World!

Look Out for the Sob-oteur.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMEWHERE a great plane, swinging through the stars, shudders and plunges . . . screams one final S. O. S.! Then all is silent though the air waves rock with pleas. Days later, searchers sight an oil slick or a shattered wing . . . that's all. Except the broken hearts, the empty years ahead. Broken and emptied by a saboteur.

Somewhere a huge ship, sliding through the seas, bulges and vomits sudden smoke and flame. Shocked silence splinters into madhouse screams. Against the glare, men scrambled briefly, then are gone. Hands battle weakly, vanish one by one. For weeks the futile questioning goes on. Meanwhile, the unknown saboteur has flown.

"Saboteur"—only a few of us had heard the term until recent years. Then, overnight, front pages blared the record of these "damagers" . . . the whole world sickened at their furtive fiendishness. Crack trains derailed, the cries of humans mingling with the screech of steel. Vast bridges buckling, plunging hundreds to a nightmare death. Food stuffs destroyed or poisoned, reservoirs defiled. Factories exploding into cliffs of flame. And all because some warped soul nursed a secret grudge . . . a grudge that festered into murderous hate . . . until, months later, the grim payoff came.

A ghastly business—sabotage. And cruel beyond our common comprehension. Surely, no mortal in his sober mind can plan such beastliness and see it through.

AND YET THEY CAN—AND DO! AND EVEN MORE.

Incredible as it may seem, there are worse monsters in our land today that Saboteurs. Men whose light chatter does more harm than dynamite . . . who wreck a nation with their poison brew yet never lift a malicious hand.

A SOB-OTEUR IS WORSE THAN ANY SAB-OTEUR.

The SABOTEUR — a common damager of property—works secretly with tools. You can know him for what he is, can estimate the deviltry he plans. But the SOB-OTEUR works suavely with his sinister tongue, doing his damage with a shrug or smile, building his havoc with a whispered phrase.

There's no visible brand on the SOB-OTEUR, no law by which he may be exposed, controlled or punished. He may be—often is—a Leading Citizen, moving in the Best Circles. But whether he wears dungarees or London tweeds, there is always about him an air of authority—and you value authority in these vague, bewildered days. You long for importance—even if it is only the importance of being in The Knockers' Chorus. So you listen intently when the SOB-OTEUR gives you "the inside dope" . . . laugh hilariously at his latest joke on the president . . . join his sneer at our "capitalistic riches" . . . buy his book by the carload when he calls us unprintable names.

Yes, the SOB-OTEUR'S both safe and popular. And you would be as surprised as he if anyone branded him a National Menace, infinitely more dangerous and demoralizing than the SABOTEUR. But he is. For, where the SABOTEUR wrecks a plane or train and kills a score or a hundred people, the SOB-OTEUR DESTROYS THE GOOD-WILL OF THE NATION . . . WRECKS ITS FAITH . . . UNDERMINES ITS LOYALTY . . . POISONS ITS BROTHERLY LOVE.

AND YOU'RE AS CULPABLE AS HE, IF YOU ADD YOUR SOB TO HIS!

Ohio Anecdotes

Log Cabin Academy.

ERUDITE classics of ancient Rome and Greece and the Old Country were taught for the first time west of the Alleghenies amid rustic surroundings of a log cabin.

Dr. Thaddeus Dod set up a curriculum of English, the classics and mathematics for his 13 pupils, who met for the first time in the spring of 1782 in a log cabin in Dod's farm. Dr. Dod was recognized as an able scholar, versed in Hebrew well enough to compose his sermons in that tongue.

School closed, however, in the autumn of 1785, when Dr. Dod sold his farm. Two years later he was granted a charter to open Washington academy. Dod becoming its first head master April 1, 1789. Two years later the school was destroyed by fire and Dod's books were burned.

Another academy was established at Canonsburg, Pa., and later became Jefferson college. Re-established Washington academy became Washington college in 1806, and later the two combined into Washington-Jefferson university.

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Most popular but most pathetic pastime of Washington society these days is raising money for Finland. Distinguished and well-meaning ladies hold afternoon teas and dinner parties at which the problem of Finnish relief is discussed and dissected fore and aft.

There have been, for instance, the parties given by those very charming and delightful ladies, Mrs. Gifford Pinchot, wife of the former governor of Pennsylvania, and Virginia Bacon, wife of the late congressman from New York.

At these, every phase of relief for Finland is threshed out—whether it is wise politics for the Republicans to vote money for Finland, whether the money should be raised as a bond issue, whether more money should be advanced by the Export-Import bank, whether Herbert Hoover is really the right man to head the relief drive.

Meanwhile Hjalmar Procope, distraught minister of Finland, sits and listens. He is polite, but it is easy to see that while this conversation rages he is thinking of anti-aircraft guns and airplanes and how many weeks more his country can last.

It is like discussing an elaborate dinner menu for a starving man who would be satisfied with a loaf of bread, if he could only get it immediately.

Finally the Finnish minister is called upon to speak. His voice breaks, the tears stream down his face, the meeting adjourns. The ladies have had their emotional spree, but little has been accomplished for Finland.

Desperate Finns.

MEANWHILE the Finns, worried over the fact that their cause in America has got into the hands of high society, are considering a money-raising campaign of their own. They fear that too many horse-shows and high-hat festivals have removed them from the ken of the man in the street.

So the Finns have been discussing with such students of human psychology as Ted Clarke and Steve Hannagan the idea of a popular drive to raise money for Finland. Under this plan, American families would be asked to save Finnish families by donating anything up to $10—and in return receive the blue cross of Finland to hang in their windows.

Note—Confidential intelligence dispatches report that Finland's condition becomes daily worse. Troops are exhausted. There are almost no replacements. It may be a matter of weeks.

FDR's Cigaret Holder.

THE PRESIDENT got one birthday present he wasn't expecting—a new cigaret holder. The gift was on Representative Jack Nichols of Oklahoma, who is still a little bewildered as to how it happened.

It was Nichols who presented to Roosevelt the movie stars who participated in the Birthday Balls. While making the introductions, he kept gesturing with a long, aluminum cigaret holder he had just bought.

Roosevelt is a great fancier of cigaret holders, and this one took his eye.

"That's a mighty classy holder you have there, Jack," he remarked. "Where'd you get it?"

"Over here at a drug store," replied Nichols. "Isn't it a nifty? It set me back three dollars, but it's worth every cent of it. Guaranteed to extract the nicotine or your money back. You ought to get yourself one."

"I believe I will," said Roosevelt, and suiting action to words, he plucked the holder out of Nichols' hand and nonchalantly put it in his pocket.

V-P Boomlets.

THE only thing accomplished at that "secret" Chicago meeting of state GOP chairmen from ten midwestern states was the polishing up of a number of vice-presidential boomlets.

With the exception of Ohio, where Senator Taft is the recognized favorite son candidate, the politicos agreed to blackout such aspirants in their states in order to go to the national convention with free hands to operate as a powerful midwestern bloc. But for vice president they left the door wide open, and the result was a number of boomlets.

South Dakota trotted out Governor Harlan Bushfield, who has been making headlines with a drive on alleged highway grafters. North Dakota put in a big plug for Hanford McNider, minister to Canada under Hoover, although leaders from his own state, Iowa, talked Governor George Wilson. Minnesota plumped for young Governor Harold Stassen, although sentiment among GOP chiefs there is in favor of letting him "ripen" a while for a future presidential race.

Real originator of the meeting, incidentally, was Homer Capehart, millionaire Indiana nickelodeon maker who staged the $30,000 "corn-field" rally in 1938 and got himself $100,000 worth of free advertising. Capehart suggested to Illinois State Chairman A. K. Stiles that it would be a nice idea to "honor" state party officials, and he sent out the invitations with a note that it would be a private gathering. But someone in Michigan tipped off the Vandenberg camp, and fearing it was a Dewey or Taft maneuver, they leaked the "secret" to the press.

Word that Roosevelt is looking for a good vacation fishing area has brought a flood of suggestions to the White House. One of them, from Nelson Poynter of the St. Petersburg Times, urges that the president make "his long delayed visit to west coast Florida. Rube Allyn, Times fishing editor and the best in Florida, says these waters will be fine in a week or two." . . . The American Labor party, which swings the balance of power in New York City, has decided to stick together only if Roosevelt runs for a third term. Otherwise it won't.

He Found a Job

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

ONE zero day recently I drove from a distant village toward my home. The wind whistled around the car windows and sent icy swirls of snow through the trees and high above the fences. Zig-zag snow twisters played ahead along the smooth road. A flock of snow birds rose and fell in the frigid currents. They seemed to enjoy themselves. I met only one car in ten miles.

Half way down the windswept lonely road, I saw ahead the figure of a man walking. When I drew near he stepped aside. His face was reddish purple. Beneath his worn slouch hat his ears showed small spots of frosted whiteness. He was rubbing his ungloved hands together vigorously. His big gray overcoat was threadbare along the sleeves and at the collar. His shoes were heavy of the workman's type.

I stopped and opened the car door. He did not need a further invitation. My ride was different in here! he exclaimed with satisfaction. 'I thought I was dressed warm, but that wind goes right through a fellow,' and he shivered hastily.

How far have you come? I asked.

'Not so far—just from that little town a few miles back. A body doesn't have to go far to almost freeze today. I'm goin' down to the next town to take a job. A friend o' mine got me in as helper in a foundry. I don't go to work until Monday, but I'm goin' early to get set before Monday comes. I can stay at this friend's until I get caught up.'

"Have you a family?" I asked.

"Yes—my wife and two girls in high school back home. 'I guess I won't be seein' 'em much for quite awhile,' he added plaintively. 'Up home there's no work to be had. We had a good car—sold it for food and clothes. For two months now we've had to go on relief. It's been a bitter pill for all our family. We didn't even feel like goin' to church. Now that I've got a job again, even though I'm only a moulder's helper, it'll put new life into all of us. D'ye know I pity anyone who's out of work and tryin' to get an honest job to live by. We've been down for four months—but I never felt we were out. I really got quite a kick out of starting out this cold day—not but what I'm glad you come along when you did. If I do well, when spring comes and school is out up home I'll move the family down here."

Society Holds Anniversary Celebration

Mrs. Gilbert Hostess for Party; Presents Varied Program.

THE fifth anniversary of the Mary Markley society of St. Paul Lutheran church was celebrated last night at the home of the sponsor, Mrs. Herman L. Gilbert, West Third street. Opening the program was Miss Louise Seybold, president, who gave a history of the organization, and letters were read from four out-of-town members, and from Dr. Mary E. Markley, doctor of literature, from Washington, D. C.

Dr. Markley is the daughter of a former pastor of St. Paul church, and serves as one of the secretaries of the Board of Education in the United Lutheran church in America. It is for her that the society was named.

"Of Our Own Household of Faith" was the topic presented by Miss Katherine Miller, and Miss Jane Weuthrick sang. Contests and games appropriate to the season followed with prizes being awarded to Mrs. Paul Thatcher, Mrs. Paul Carr, Mrs. Joseph Morganstern and Miss Helen Boyer.

The hostess served Valentine refreshments in the dining room at a long table centered with a bowl of white sweet peas, red carnations and matching tapers in silver holders. The white cake centered with a large figure five and five red candles was made by Miss Boyer. The president and Miss Lillian Damlos presided at the table.

The guests were seated at small tables covered with Valentine cloths and centered with red heart candles in brass heart-shaped sticks. Guests of the group were Mrs. William Enlow and Mrs. Elizabeth Wagenhals. The next meeting will be held March 14 at the home of Mrs. Michael Hallabrin, jr., 100 Gibson avenue, with Miss Seybold giving the topic.

Children Entertained at Afternoon Party

Norma Jean Kollin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kollin, 206 Lida street, was feted yesterday on the occasion of her 11th birthday by a group of young friends. Games were played, and a buffet style luncheon was served. Winners in the games were Mary Jane and Tommy Edwards. Doris Arnold, June Eick and Raymond Bush.

Guests in addition to the prize winners were Major and Frank Kollin, Donald Arnold, Jack Hozmiller, Delores Doight, Dorothy and Clara Filik and Larry Edwards.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

COLLEGIATE comment is mingled with vacation news today in the doings of Mansfielders here, there and most everywhere. . . . Eleanor Wilcox, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilcox, has been named chairman of the rush program for her social club, Sigma Mu Sigma, at Hiram college. . . . So she will be more than busy in the days to come as the four girls' social groups at the school will have their rushing program this week-end, with the new pledges being named the early part of next week. . . . Eleanor is a junior this year.

In spite of much talk about the fun of enjoying summer sports while vacationing down south in the wintertime, cold weather games can be equally pleasant—Miriam Tappan will vouch for that, as she recently spent some time in the White mountains participating in the winter sports there. . . . Miriam (the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Tappan) goes to Lasell Junior college in Auburndale, Mass., you know, and she went to the mountains with a large party of students from the school for this outing—which is an annual event.

Her Mansfield friends will be happy to know that Mrs. J. C. Murray is visiting here now with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Williams. . . . Mrs. Murray, who moved from this city to Youngstown a few years ago, arrived yesterday for an indefinite stay.

* * *

THE sunny state of Florida beckoned to Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Routzahn, and so they recently took the Miami Special down to Miami Beach. . . . They were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Brush (well-known Ohio newspaper publisher) for a house party at the Surf club, and they're visiting with Mr. Routzahn's brother, Roy, while there too. . . . And if time permits during their vacation, the Routzahns are planning to take a short trip over to Nassau.

* * *

Mrs. Jane Stroup has returned from a very restful stay in Texas. . . . She motored down and back—remaining there for about three weeks.

* * *

VIRGINIA CHEW was one of the more fortunate folks, who received an invitation to the formal opening, reception and private showing of the masterpieces from various European museums, now on display at the Cleveland Museum of Art. . . . The affair was held one evening this week, but the paintings (which were loaned for display at the New York and San Francisco fairs last summer and are now on tour of the U. S. because of war conditions in Europe) will remain at the museum for about a month. . . . Incidentally, Virginia, who's a student at Western Reserve School of Library Science, spent her recent semester vacation here with her parents, Atty. and Mrs. Charles W. Chew.

* * *

THIS will be an important week-end for several Mansfielders as they're driving down to Columbus to attend a fraternity formal. . . . Marjorie Scott, Mary Lou Sowash, George Arbruster and Robert Boggy are the lucky ones going down for the dance.

Founding of P. T. A. Subject for Meeting

A Founders' Day program was presented last night at the regular monthly meeting of the Brinkerhoff P. T. A. which was attended by 25 parents and teachers in the school building. Hall was accompanist.

Dr. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor of the First Lutheran church, spoke on "What America Stands For." At the close of the meeting refreshments were served. The committee in charge was Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Russell, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bishop, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lindley, jr. The next meeting will be held March 14 with Mrs. Russel Gimbel as guest speaker.

The hostess then played "Believe Me of All Those Endearing Young Charms" on the harp, and the program was concluded when Helen Pecht, Janet and Joan Banks sang "God Bless America." HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Feb. 10.

A rather moderate degree of activity, with things possibly moving into new or unaccustomed grooves, is read from the predominant astral influences. These may not prove entirely satisfactory, being attended by some subtle or deep incitements that are difficult to interpret. But new matters or contacts with strangers may benefit. Correspondence seems to be a pleasing factor.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a fairly successful and progressive year, with certain aspects of the profound or subtle seeming to be an actuating and challenging factor. Strangers figure profitably and prudent change may benefit. Correspondence brings pleasure in private relations.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

OLINA was as ready for me as Mary had been.

"I think I have them," she said as soon as I entered the room. "Maman has been helping me, and I've gone through them twice now without a mistake."

"If your mother will permit us," I said, "I'll cue you now, and hear your lines."

But Queen Olga interposed quickly.

"Will you not read them over first the way you want them spoken?" she asked. "My daughter is only an amateur, you know."

"That is all the more reason why I wish to hear her rendition exactly as she has conceived it," I said steadily.

But my secret opinion was justified when I heard Olina speak the lines I had written for her.

"You have a natural flair for the dramatic, Olina," I told her. "I think, in time, you may go far."

"Oh!" she gasped, "thank you. Does that mean—"

She stopped, embarrassed.

"It doesn't mean that you are reading these lines correctly," I told her quickly. "I shall have to drill you in them quite a bit. But you have so good a dramatic sense, and such natural timing, that I am sure we shan't have to waste much time before you have them as I want them."

"I'll try very hard," she said as humbly as a child might.

"I know you will," I told her, and began at once to drill her in the lines, word by word, almost syllable by syllable, with the intonations I wished.

When I was finally satisfied, I told her so emphatically.

"I think Mr. Veritzen is going to be very pleased with this," I commended.

"Oh! but that is wonderful news," she said. "If only my harp playing pleases him!"

"I wouldn't worry too greatly on that score," I answered. "There's something more important. Are you too fatigued to go with me back to Mary's room, where I can have you practice these lines together? I don't want any hitch when Mr. Veritzen hears you this afternoon."

"Oh! I'm not tired at all," she exclaimed enthusiastically. "Let's go right away! Shall we?"

"That is what I would like," I told her, and with an encouraging smile from Queen Olga, her daughter went with me out of the room and down to Mary's room.

"Will Noel be there?" Olina asked in muted tones when we neared the door.

"No, he will not be there," I said. "Mary is all alone and waiting for us."

"I hope she likes my rendition," she said humbly. "Or course, hers will be wonderful."

"But when the rehearsal was over, and I had professed myself satisfied with the work of both of them, and had said with decision that I knew Philip Veritzen would be pleased, I caught Olina looking surreptitiously at Mary with a queer, puzzled expression which was only too plain to me, for it was the natural effect on any intelligent person after listening to the stilted, lifeless rendition which Philip Veritzen had imposed upon his daughter-in-law. And when she left us to go back to her mother and wait for the arrival of the harps, Mary struck her hands together in impotent anger.

"Did you see her?" she demanded. "You could almost hear her ask: 'Is this the newest Veritzen star?' And if that's the effect on her, what will it be on that company tomorrow? I shall be a laughing stock to them all."

THEATERS

WALLY WESTMORE, head of Paramount's make-up department, is experimenting with a luminous paste to be used as make-up for players in mystery films. . . . Take it from Charles Laughton, Vivien Leigh has a right hook like a prize fighter's! He "took it" on the chin twice from the diminutive but dynamic Scarlett O'Hara of "Gone With the Wind," in the new picture "Sidewalks of London," and he says, she doesn't pull her punches. Andy Devine acquired his "gravel" voice during a football game. An opposing halfback broke away for a long run and Andy, sitting on the bench, started to yell. He yelled so long that he strained his vocal chords which resulted in the present condition, says his publicity man.

"Maisie" at Her Best.

Modern Africa, with an American flavor by way of ships that pass in the night, comes to the screen in "Congo Maisie," featuring Ann Sothern and John Carroll and opening Saturday at the Madison theater. The story tells of a fiery American showgirl who is stranded on the west coast of Africa. There she meets a sardonic doctor who regards her as nothing more than an intruder. But when the girl proves her integrity and her courage, the man is forced to admit her merits. Starring George Raft, Jane Bryan and William Holden in "Invisible Stripes" is the other feature.

New Dance Combination.

Teaming for the first time Fred Astaire and Eleanor Powell, famed tap dancers, "Broadway Melody of 1940" opens at the Ohio theater Saturday. George Murphy, one of Hollywood's leading dance stars, is also in the cast, as is Frank Morgan, who gives color to the comedy, and Ian Hunter, Florence Rice, Lynne Carver and Douglas McPhail. Included in the song hits are "Begin the Beguine," "Please Don't Monkey with Broadway," "I Happen to Be in Love," "Between You and Me," "I Concentrate on You," and "I've Got My Eyes on You."

Frontier Life.

The bark of six-guns and the flaming life of the old frontier will occupy the screen of the Majestic theater Saturday when "Taming of the West," Bill Elliott's action drama, opens. This new outdoor star portrays Wild Bill Saunders, an adventurer who wanders into a wide-open cattle town and a hotbed of lawlessness and thievery, and cleans up the place. The second feature is "Convicted Woman," the inside story of a girls' reformatory. Rochelle Hudson, Frieda Inescort, Jane Lang and Lola Lane head the female cast.

"Two Bright Boys."

Showing at the Ritz Friday and Saturday are John Mack Brown in "Oklahoma Frontier," and Jackie Cooper and Freddie Bartholomew in "Bright Boys." The latter story is the drama of a youngster's courage in the face of impending disaster. The scene is laid in the colorful atmosphere of the Texas old fields, and pictures the swift tragedy which may come when one places confidence in dangerous companions. Alan Dinehart appears as the menace to the plans of Cooper and Bartholomew.

Dramatic Variety.

The picture "Southward Ho!" which is being shown at the Park theater today and Saturday is laid in a post-war setting of the old south when unscrupulous northerners took advantage of the devastating conditions that prevailed after the surrender of the Appamatox. The sweethearts, Roy Rogers and Mary Hart, are on opposite sides of the fence, as the picture opens, but circumstances beyond their control bring them together at the thrilling finale. Marking the return to the screen of Margo, "Miracle on Main Street" is the second feature. Walter Abel heads the supporting cast.

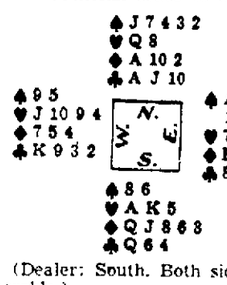
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A GOOD CONVENTION.

Many advanced players use a business double of 3-No Trumps in an artificial sense to compel a lead of the dummy's suit, failure to double indicating negatively that the partner must pick what looks naturally to him like the best lead. Some employ this convention only when in rubber play, or total-point duplicates, but not in match-point events. The distinction is because, in any form of total-point play, the importance of doing everything possible to prevent the big score for a game is much greater than the slight increase in the value of a trick or two doubled.



(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South began this rubber bridge deal with 1-Diamond. North answered with 1-Spade, and South bid 1-No Trump. North forced then with a jump rebid of 3-Spades, and South called 3-No Trump, which East doubled.

West read East's double as conventional, asking for a lead of dummy's spade suit. He led his highest card of it, the 9. No matter what the declarer tried to do then, he had to lose four spade tricks. Furthermore, he had no way to pick up nine tricks except by trying his diamonds, and when he did that East took the setting trick with his diamond K.

Look this deal over and you will see that any lead by West except a spade would give the declarer his contract. West could never get in the lead later to push a spade through. Consequently, East could take nothing but three spades and one diamond.

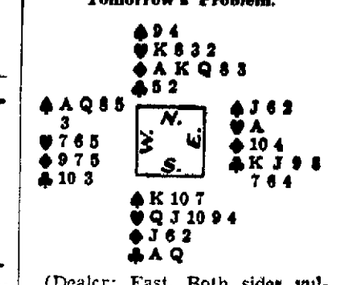
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable).

What is the best defense on this deal against West's 4-Spade sacrifice bid?

PLAN BENEFIT.

Members of the B'Nai Brith auxiliary will entertain Tuesday afternoon of next week with a benefit card party at Temple Emmanuel, 132 West Second street. Mrs. H. Goldman, Mrs. Maurice Browarsky, and Mrs. David Rub are in charge of arrangements.

Starting next Sunday, the famous Dionne Quintuplets will appear in the Sunday edition of The News-Journal. Late news, outstanding features, all for 3c per copy.

CHAPTER XXI.

Claire would have collapsed if Bill hadn't reached out and taken her in his arms. He could hear her heart beating against his chest racing madly. Her face was contorted with fright.

He leaned down and kissed her gently on the lips, and then again, as she clung to him.

"It's a bluff," he whispered. "They can't possibly know of this place. Don't be afraid, but be very quiet."

"Come out, Cameron!" the voice in the bedroom called again, an angry note in it now. "We know you are hidden here. It will go worse with you if we have to hunt for you!"

There was complete silence for more than a minute as the man who had shouted waited for an answer. Claire's heart was still beating wildly and it seemed to her that its thumping could be heard throught the wall.

* * *

Then they heard a gutteral command in German in the next room, and the sound of several persons moving heavily about. The searchers apparently were looking under the bed, behind the chairs, the curtains, every place a person might hide.

From the kitchen and the other bedroom came sounds of a similar hunt, the banging of doors.

Suddenly a voice rang out.

"Come here, all of you! Stand guard in front of this chest! This is where he's hidden! When you are ready, I'll open the door. Shoot if he makes a move! He's a desperate man!"

Claire closed her eyes.

The test had come—the test of the careful efforts that had been made to entirely conceal all entrance to the hidden room.

"Ready!" she heard the command, and recognized again the voice. It was that of George Roland.

The door of the big chest was flung violently open, and there was the sound of a man jumping to one side. Roland obviously was taking no chances on risking his precious skin.

They heard his exclamation of surprise when the opened wardrobe revealed nothing. Then they could hear him breathing heavily.

"Move this wardrobe!" he commanded.

The heavy chest grated against the wall. Then came the careful sounding of the walls, searching for some hidden room that might give a hollow sound and reveal a hiding place. Smart, sharp raps.

Claire blessed Frau Weber's dead husband for having done such a good job. He had, his widow told her, placed a thin plate of padded steel in the panel so that if ever it were tapped it would give off the sound of a real wall.

Roland, cursing now, ordered his men to put the chest exactly as it had been.

"A mistake has been made, somewhere," he said, gruffly. "The person who denounced Frau Weber was wrong. We must put everything back as it was, so she will not suspect that we have searched the place. She is too valuable to us to arouse her anger."

Claire and Bill heard the chest being pushed back into place, and the men moving about the apartment for several more minutes. Then, at last, the sound of the outer door being closed.

The girl collapsed weakly onto the cot, and her body shook with convulsive sobs as she finally gave way to tears.

She was still unnerved half an hour later when a sharp knock came on the wall and they heard the voice of Frau Weber calling to them. There was a note of alarm in her voice, which turned to relief as Cameron sprang up and pulled the lever that opened the wall panel.

"How you frightened me!" the German woman exclaimed as they appeared. "I thought—I don't know what I thought."

"We had visitors," Cameron explained, and went on to tell her what had happened. Frau Weber's face reflected the alarm she felt and Lili rushed to the door, opened it cautiously and looked out.

"Then they do suspect us, Mother," Lili said as the American finished.

"It seems so. There has been a slip, somewhere. Perhaps you were followed here, Herr Cameron?"

"I'd swear we were not. We saw no one."

"Naturally. But some one saw you—a stranger in this neighborhood—a report was made, and the raid followed."

"It was George Roland who led them here," Claire told her.

"Ah, Herr Roland?" Frau Weber shrugged her shoulders. "He goes too far, I think. We shall see."

"But, Mother—now that we are under suspicion . . ." her daughter said.

"Yes, Lili you're right. You, Herr Cameron, and the Fraulein must go. Our work is more important than any individuals. If they come back here—and I know they will—there must not be the slightest shred of evidence against either of us. Otherwise we are through our usefulness will be at an end."

"You mean—you mean, we must go?" Claire asked, her eyes widening with fright. "You'll not turn us out, Frau Weber, surely?"

"No, no, of course not, my dear. Buy you must leave here at once. While you get ready, Lili will get together a bag of food. It won't be much—we haven't much. No one has, but you're welcome to what there is."

"You are very kind, Frau Weber," Cameron said. "You have been marvelous to take us in—to protect us."

"But what shall we do?" Claire asked, panic-stricken at the prospect of being turned out in the streets.

"This is an emergency," the German woman said. "We must meet it as such. No word has come through yet, but I'm sure it will. Your best chance is to go back to where you arrived, Fraulein—to Pichelsdorf. You can hide in the heavy woods there for several days if necessary. There is water, and if you are careful, the food we give you will hold out."

"But isn't there a chance that the men who came here—who searched the place—may be watching outside?" Cameron asked.

"The chances are almost a hundred to one they are still very close by. For some reason Herr Roland suspects me, and you may depend upon it, friend or no friend, he'll see me condemned to the axe if he can prove that I've betrayed the Nazi cause."

SPARTA, N. J.—(INS)—A lusty eight-prong deer decided that he wanted a fight recently and today he is sorry. The buck engaged in a Don Quixote joust with a passing automobile, left one of his horns in the radiator grille of the car and staggered bleeding back into the woods.

FOOLED HENS WORK HARDER

Experiments Reveal Lights in Coops Result in More Eggs in Wintertime.

LEXINGTON, Ky. —(AP)— The University of Kentucky Agricultural experiment station has found that fooling hens by turning on electric lights at 4 a. m. shifts egg production from summer to winter but doesn't increase egg production for the year.

This finding was announced after three years of testing artificial lighting in laying houses.

"However," the station reported, "since eggs are usually higher in price in winter, early morning lighting of the laying houses often pays."

The Agricultural department warned an increase of food should accompany lengthening of the hen's working day.

JUDGE FINES, WEDS THEM

WEED, Calif. —(U.P.)— Claude Leonard Cox and Miss Matila Franco were brought before Judge Bradley by Traffic Officer M. D. Bennet on a charge that they whizzed past his siren-auto faster than he liked. Judge Bradley imposed a minimum fine. That pleased the young couple so much that they asked the judge to marry them. He did.

HULL RENEWS DIPLOMATIC TILT WITH BRITISH ON MAIL RIGHTS

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON —That irresistible force, "the mail must go through," and that immoveable object, the British blockade, are colliding in another round of a century-old fight.

Secretary Hull is pointing the 16-inch guns of diplomacy at the British Foreign office, taking up the battle of notes where Secretary Lansing left off nearly a quarter of a century ago.

Britain has taken off American and other vessels nearly 2,000 sacks of mail and parcel post from the United States, addressed to Germany and to neutral countries.

Secretary Hull maintains "that postal correspondence of neutrals or belligerents is inviolable on the high seas" and also on ships required by British authorities to put into a British port.

But Britain believes she has the right to open, examine and censor mail that might give information or comfort to her enemy.

Stand Weakened.

Unfortunately for the striking power of Hull's guns of argument, the American position on the inviolability of the mails during wartime deviated somewhat during the World war from our traditional view.

Exempt Merchandise.

Secretary Lansing was firm enough in his claims for the inviolability of the mails, but he gave in on the point of parcel post, admitting it could be treated by the British as merchandise, if destined to Germany. And he admitted also that checks, bonds, securities, money orders, drafts and similar instruments were merchandise.

This gave Britain permission to sequester such articles, if she could prove they were destined to Germany.

Having gone thus far, it was not too great a wrench for the United States, on entering the World war in 1917, to assert the right of censorship over neutral countries, mail when it passed through an American port.

The State Department also brought to bear on Cuba to institute a censorship of mail touching at Cuban ports. Cuba, which had followed the United States in declaring war on Germany, agreed.

MORE SKYLARKS

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah —(U.P.)— "Rocky Mountain Canaries"—commonly called burros are pretty well known, especially in western fiction. But there's a new Rocky Mountain variety now. It's the "Rocky Mountain Skylarks"—a group of young Salt Lake City business men who have purchased two small planes and are cooperatively learning to fly.

GETS $1,421 IN RELIEF FUNDS

County Must Use Revenue, However, to Pay Off Old Notes.

Richland county had received $1,421 in state relief funds today, but the money must be used to pay off relief notes and not for current bills.

County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said the money would be applied on obligations totaling more than $70,000 incurred by Mansfield and Madison township last year. The notes were issued in anticipation of state revenues.

The allocation of funds represents the county's share of January collections of beer, malt, wort, and admission taxes. Total county distributions in Ohio amounted to $147,536.

TOOTH VAULT FOR GEM

TRENTON, Ill. —(U.P.)— Chief White Eagle, 31-year-old Cherokee Indian and fancy rifle shooting expert, won't lose the two-carat diamond Will Rogers, the cowboy humorist, gave him. He stopped over here on his way from Hollywood to New York to have a dentist set the jewel in one of his upper teeth "to keep it in a safe place."
